

ABOUT THE AUTHOR: Dr. Revilo Pendleton Oliver, Professor of the Classics at the University of Illinois for 32 years, is a scholar of international distinction who has written articles in four languages for the most prestigious academic publications in the United States and Europe.

During World War II, Dr. Oliver was Director of Research in a highly secret agency of the War Department, and was cited for outstanding service to his country.

One of the very few academicians who has been outspoken in his opposition to the progressive defacement of our civilization, Dr. Oliver has long insisted that the fate of his countrymen hangs on their willingness to subordinate their doctrinal differences to the tough but idealistic solidarity which is the prerequisite of a Majority resurgence.

SOME QUOTABLE QUOTES FROM *AMERICA'S DECLINE

On the 18th Amendment (Prohibition): "Very few Americans were sufficiently sane to perceive that they had repudiated the American conception of government and had replaced it with the legal principle of the 'dictatorship of the proletariat,' which was the theoretical justification of the Jews' revolution in Russia."

On Race: "We must further understand that all races naturally regard themselves as superior to all others. We think Congoids unintelligent, but they feel only contempt for a race so stupid or craven that it fawns on them, gives them votes, lavish subsidies, them with its own earnings, and even oppresses its own people to curry their favor. We are a race as are the others. If we attribute to ourselves a superiority, intellectual, moral, or other, in terms of our own standards, we are simply indulging in a tautology. The only objective criterion of superiority among human races as among all other species, is biological: the strong survive, the weak perish. The superior race of mankind today is the one that will emerge victorious—whether by its technology or its fecundity—from the proximate struggle for life on an overcrowded planet."

FREEDOM OF SPEECH-FREEDOM OF THOUGHT FREEDOM OF EXPRESSION

The editor-publisher of Liberty Bell does not necessarily agree with each and every article in this magazine, nor does he subscribe to all conclusions arrived at by various writers; however, he does endeavor to permit the exposure of ideas suppressed by the controlled news media of this country.

It is, therefore, in the best tradition of America and of free men everywhere that Liberty Bell strives to give free reign to ideas, for ultimately it is ideas which rule the world and determine both the content and structure of culture.

We believe that we can and will change our society for the better. We declare our long-held view that no institution or government created by men, for men, is inviolable, incorruptible, and not subject to evolution, change or replacement by the will of the people.

To this we dedicate our lives and our work. No effort will be spared and no idea will be allowed to go unexpressed if we think it will benefit the Thinking People, not only of America, but the entire world.

ON THE GERMANIC PEOPLES

If you are interested in the history of our unique race, you have a special interest in the Germanic peoples who, though called "barbarians" in the standard histories, assured the survival, and eventually the revival, of our civilization after the fall of the Roman Empire, and you have probably read such works as Francis Owen's The Germanic People (1960; reprinted, New Haven, Connecticut, College & University Press, 1966) and Earnest Sevier Cox's Teutonic Unity (Richmond, Virginia, privately printed, s.a. [1951]; reprinted, s.l., s.n.t. [Torrance, California, Noontide Press], s.a. [c.1967]).

As you know, in the kingdoms of the Germanic conquerors their native laws supplanted or greatly modified the Roman law as it had been codified in the later Empire by jurists who were not Roman. The celebrated Gaius, who was a contemporary of Marcus Aurelius, and his successors, Papinianus, Ulpianus, et al., all came from the Hellenized provinces of the Roman Empire and probably from Asia Minor, but we know nothing about their race: they may have been the descendants of Greek colonists or natives (e.g., Syrians) who had acquired Greek culture. Their foreign origin neatly accords with the fact that under the Empire, Roman law, although retaining much of the terminology, became quite different from what the law had been under the Republic.

If your studies have taken you this far, you will wish to consult an admirably concise article, "Another Look at the Origins of the Middle Ages: a Reassessment of the Role of the Germanic Kingdoms," by Professor Katherine F. Drew, in Speculum, LXII (1987), pp. 803-812.

The article treats an aspect of the subject that is seldom noticed, that the Germanic laws, whether they simply supplanted the Roman law, as did the Anglo-Saxon code (which was the source of the Common Law that was the acknowledged basis of American jurisprudence until the Jewish mentality took over), or they were superimposed on the Roman law, as in the Visigothic Kingdom, were based on a conception of the family as the unity to which an individual naturally and unalterably belonged by birth. The Germanic laws therefore reflected an organically cohesive society in which the family (parents, children, and both agnate and cognate kin) formed the basic unit, as is natural for Aryans. This conception differed radically from the conception that is natural to Semitic peoples and was foisted on us by Christianity and "democracy," according to which an individual is an isolated unit, having no necessary relation to any other human being. (A conception so alien to the Aryan character inevitably produces psychological stress and the terrible sense of loneliness that afflicts so many of our contemporaries.)

As the learned authoress points out, the Germanic conception of the family also determined the institution of slavery in the Germanic nations, often in conjunction with the Germanic code of what we would call criminal law, for here again we meet the native Aryan idea that the function of the state is not to punish crimes of violence, such as robbery and murder, by imprisoning or executing the guilty, but to give to the victim or his family such compensation as is possible in the circumstances, assigning to each crime a monetary value and obliging the criminal, if unable to pay the proper compensation, to work out the assessment by becoming, temporarily or permanently, according to the gravity of the offense, the slave of the victim of the crime or his heirs.

In the Germanic kingdoms the institution of slavery reverted to what it had been in the Roman Republic, as is obvious from the Latin word familia, which designates a man's household, i.e., all the persons subject to his authority: his wife, his children (including adult sons who live at home and their wives), his free retainers, and his slaves. Likewise, in the Germanic kingdoms, slaves were no less members of a man's household ("family" in the limited sense) than the others.<sup>1</sup>

Having read this article, I thought it likely that the Germanic

1. Thus slaves differed little from other domestic servants, while in agriculture they were rendered unnecessary by the serfs and villeins, who continued, with Germanic modifications, the system of coloni and adscripti glebae of the late Roman Empire. In the Tenth Century, when many Slavs were sold in Europe by traders of Germanic conquerors, thus giving us the word 'slave' (earlier 'sclave,' from French esclave), they were, so to speak, a novelty.

conception accounts for an odd linguistic fact. In Mediaeval Latin, servus, which in Classical Latin always designates a slave, came to be applied to a hired servant as well. This in turn, it seems to me, may account for the converse usage in English before the Nineteenth Century, the word 'servant' being often used to designate specifically a slave. The ambiguity thus latent in the word had disastrous results.

As everyone knows, the canonical "New Testament" specifically approves and sanctions slavery and emphatically commands slaves to obey their masters in all things except their private religious faith. But for a reason that is unknown, since the relevant part of the Reverend John Bois's record of the deliberations of the translators has been lost, the committee of review that fixed the final text of the King James version approved the use of the word 'servant' to translate the Greek doulos, which designates a slave.<sup>2</sup>

Given the ambiguity, an uneducated person, reading his Bible in English, could read such an injunction as "Servants, obey your masters" without understanding that the religious command is addressed to slaves, and he could miss the point of Jesus's frequent mention of slaves without a hint of disapproval, and even of his explicit contrast between the status of a hired servant (diakonos) and that of a slave (doulos). That made it possible for the scurvy agitators called Abolitionists to lie to the ignorant masses and claim that the Christian religion disapproved of slavery. Thus, despite the protests honest clergymen, the malicious spielers succeeded in exciting fanatical emotions in the unthinking multitude and in precipitating the iniquitous invasion of the South that effectively rescinded the Constitution and ended the American Republic, while delivering first the North, and finally-

2. In the translation of the Bible produced by Wycliff and his coadjutors and completed around 1382, 'servant' was used to translate servus, in preference to 'sclave,' which may have seemed a foreign word then, and to 'bondman,' which would have included serfs and villeins. The translators of the King James version may simply have taken the word from Wycliff, but surely some member of the committee would have pointed out the potential ambiguity before the text was finally approved. Given the anomalies of French conjugation, servant is the present participle of servir, which is the Latin servire ('to serve,' without defining the civil status of the person rendering the service). I do not know whether the use of the word in the English Bible influenced the common use by American slaveholders of 'servant' to designate a slave.

the conquered South, to financial pirates who looted the nation and gorged themselves on its disasters.

NOW IT IS TOO LATE

Everyone now knows of the death of the man, ninety-three years old, infirm, and almost blind, who had been held in solitary confinement in the elaborate prison of Spandau Fortress for more than forty years to demonstrate to the world what happens to Aryan swine who offend the Masters of Deceit, the slimy creatures to whom Yahweh gave the universe. Almost every "right-wing" publication that reported his death commented on the extreme implausibility of the official story that the feeble old man had committed suicide by strangling himself with an electric cord while he was perpetually under observation by one or another of his hundred and fifty jailers. The most probable explanation is that he was not permitted to die without being murdered, for the information of alert observers, by the rite of strangulation ordained in the Master Race's principal Talmud. See the authentic text of Prince Sturdza's The Suicide of Europe quoted by Warren B. Heath in his introduction to D. Bacu's The Anti-Humans, pp. xxxiii-xxxiv.<sup>1</sup>

The unspeakably inhuman and sub-bestial creatures—American, British, and Soviet, though all servants of the same ubiquitous power—who imprisoned him had ordained that when the prisoner died, his body was to be cremated before his death was made public. For some reason, this was not done, and the body was given to Hess's family, who gave it a decent burial. The most plausible reason for the change in procedure was a wish to advertise to the world the death by strangulation.

The enemies of mankind have now successfully prevented disclosure of the vital secret that was known only to the martyred prisoner among living men. (I use the word 'martyred' with its exact meaning.) There is, perhaps, a remote chance that among

1. The Anti-Humans published in Colorado in 1971, is available from Liberty Bell Publications, $7.00 + $1.00. The passage cited by Mr. Heath was omitted (naturally!) in the bowdlerized and often distorted English translation of Prince Sturdza's book, published in 1968 by the Birch Society, which thus betrayed the confidence of the wealthy lady who had paid for the translation and publication.

the jailers there was some person sufficiently human or sufficiently avaricious to preserve secretly copies of the memoirs that the prisoner wrote and of which the agents of the Yiddish Inquisition, with habitual deception, burned the pages as soon as he turned them over "for safe-keeping."

In an article in Liberty Bell, April 1985, I called attention to our moral obligation to History, the obligation to avert, while there was yet time, one of the dilemmas that so complicate historiography: A responsible and respected British physician, who had given the prisoner a thorough physical examination, using all of the usual medical techniques, including roentgenographs, positively affirmed that the prisoner could not be the Rudolf Hess who was the trusted companion and adviser of Adolf Hitler. So far as is known, the corpse was not subjected to an examination to determine the truth or falsity of that statement.

So now we are left with another Man in the Iron Mask to puzzle the historians of the future and inspire endless hypotheses and debates. I hesitate to estimate the area of forest that was sacrificed to print the innumerable volumes and articles that have been devoted to the "Iron Mask," because no one at the time preserved a record of the identity of the masked prisoner who was, like the prisoner in Spandau, held incommunicado until his death and burial. Literature may have profited, since the mystery inspired some romantic works of fiction, but history suffered, since a secret so jealously guarded must have been of some importance, and none of the hypotheses thus far advanced has been convincing. Now history will have to cope with another insoluble mystery.

But perhaps it doesn't matter. Our race seems to have elected to perish from the earth, and with it will perish history as we know it. History is an Aryan invention. Oriental monarchs set up monuments and inscriptions to commemorate their real or fictitious exploits for their own glory, but history as a judicious and impartial effort to determine objectively what actually happened was created by the Greeks. Herodotus was the first historian now generally known, and he was soon followed by Thucydides, one of the greatest of historical minds. When the Roman Empire was mongrelized and fell, there remained the great reservoir of Aryan blood in the Germanic peoples. When we go, there will be no Aryans to continue our civilization after the new Dark Ages.

If the Jews succeed in enslaving the whole world, there will be no history, no record at all of what actually happened. There will be only sleazy and preposterous tales, such as fill the Christians' holy Jew-Book and its most recent appendix, the Holohoax. It is possible, of course, that the Mongolians, headed by the Japanese, will not succumb to Jewry and will attain hegemony over the planet. They will probably preserve a record of their own achievements and triumphs, but have little interest in a race so inferior that it idiotically threw away the power that it once had—a race so cruel that even while bent on suicide it endangered children to suffer in the Hell on earth it was making for them.

The Courrier du Continent, October 1987, reports the publication of what may have been the last writing by Céline (L.-F. Destouches) before his death. The famous author of Voyage au bout de la nuit imagined a history textbook used in the schools in the year 3000, when the planet is inhabited and ruled by Mongolians, who have wisely permitted the niggers to exterminate themselves. We are remembered in a brief note: "White men invented the atomic bomb and soon thereafter they became extinct. They did not resist mongrelization."

PHILOLOGICAL REVELATION

I have received a letter from a devotee of "Pat" Robertson who asks me to support that champion hokum-huckster for the Presidency. He sends, together with citations of Holy Writ, a revelation worthy of Robertson, although not attributed to him: "The Latin language is the Satanic language, deriving from the Devil's Triangle off the coast of Bermuda, where is the Tower of Babel, the tower minted [!] on the back of the dollar bill." Philologists can only be grateful for what they learn from so concise a specimen of pious thought.

HAVING FUN

Every once in a while a Jew in some community in this country has a romp. He paints a swastika on the side of his barn or his store or his house or a synagogue and then yells for the local press. A photographer rushes out and poses a couple beside the horrid swastika—usually a porcine Jewess with a male shrimp or a balloon-shaped male with a cadaverous female—and they try to look woebegone and to tremble with fear lest the terrible Nazis return at any minute and stuff them into the awful gas-chambers that weren't at Auschwitz.

The local editor has a conniption fit, beating his breast and tearing his hair because Americans aren't so full of love that they kill "racists" on sight. All the local holy men vie with each other as they foam at the mouth, exhort, and howl for blood. Local chambers of commerce and "service clubs" advertise themselves with irate and silly resolutions. Scores of dumb bunnies apologize for the existence of their sinful race and parade their tender hearts, bleeding for the oppressed Children of God. And the Jews exercise self-control to avoid snickering in public.

In the November issue of Spearhead, a correspondent quotes from a book by one Michael Friedland entitled Sophie. It is a biography of a Kikess named Sophie Tucker, whose obscene contortions and ditties earned her the title of "Red Hot Mamma" in the 1930s as she did her part in carrying out her race's policy: First defile, and then destroy. According to Friedland:

"There were problems of another sort in the East End music halls. The Fascist threat was growing, and Sophie's own Jewish people, perhaps still her loyalest audience of all, were all showing great anxiety. Sir Oswald Mosley threatened to become the British Hitler and was growing politically fat on a diet of Jew-baiting. Sophie sensed the mood of the folks about whom she sang in one of her hit songs of the year, 'My People,' and decided to turn the air of fear into a publicity stunt.

"She hired—with great coverage of the results in the British press—a gang of youths to throw stones at her but making very sure they would all miss. She then revealed that she had been attacked by members of the British Union of Fascists."

It's an old tribal custom. I'll bet that when the predators first infiltrated Canaan and began agitating for godliness and "social justice" to incite the stupid Semites to fight each other, they painted the Canaanite symbol on their shops and then bawled and snivelled about how persecuted they were.

THE SINS OF THE IRANIANS

Persons who expect the Jews' government in Washington to show some consistency in its operations, just to keep the boobs from thinking, were astonished when, within the space of a week, the righteous Iranians, whom we were supplying with weapons so that they could destroy the people of Iraq, who are so wicked they want to retain property the Jews want, were suddenly transformed into the wicked Iranians, who are outlaws because, in their war against Iraq, they try to control shipping in the Persian Gulf. That was a transformation so sudden as to be almost miraculous, but, of course, American naval vessels and a large expeditionary force of troops were rushed to the Persian Gulf to create a plausible preliminary for a war in which many Americans can be killed and the remaining resources of our ruined nation squandered to make the United States even more contemptible than it was made by our shameful and skillfully engineered defeats in Korea and Vietnam.

It now appears that the United States continues to supply weapons to Iran to facilitate its attacks on our ships. That it does is alleged by Mansur Raftzadeh, former Chief of the Iranian Secret Service, who says that he maintains contacts within the present government. (See Spotlight, 12 October 1987.) It would be only logical for Washington to provide Iran with weapons for use against our sitting ducks in the Persian Gulf—what better way of creating pretexts for the desired war?—and the supply could be arranged in the usual way, i.e., Washington gives the weapons to the Israelites, who sell them to the Iranians at a handsome profit and doubtless find opportunities to swindle the Iranians besides. And Raftzadeh's story is now corroborated by Jim Taylor's sources, reported in his article in the January 1988 issue of Liberty Bell.

As we all know, Iran is now governed by a high-powered holy man, who has excited religious fanaticism in the Moslems of that country. The featured article in the September issue of Instauration drew a vivid contrast between Iran, "a nation militarily weak, but informed by an all-encompassing Idea, expressed through the personality of a leader with enormous spiritual resources and strength," and the United States, a territory of rootless individuals, governed by the rabble of "Liberal intellectuals" who cluster around a third-rate cinema actor, a man who is "vacuous, other-directed, a public-relations masterpiece shaped by the expertise of the morally syphilitic film industry, a soul that reacts only to the applause or catcalls of the mob, blathering sanctimoniously—as did his predecessor—about 'humanity,' 'rights,' 'happiness,' 'freedom,' and other shibboleths,...with not the slightest idea of who he is or with any sense of a real purpose for the country he leads."

The spiritual strength of Iran is shown by the willingness of the Iranians to fight and die for their Ideal, and the rottenness of the Judaized United States is shown by the reluctance of even its most thoughtless tares to risk abrasion of their hides for any purpose, except perhaps for rioting and crimes of violence against the minority of civilized Americans. The article, which is signed by Vic Olvir, augurs an eventual renaissance of our race when it at last rejects the filth and squalor of the "Liberal"-Communist "intellectuals" and is inspired by a spiritual ideal, which need not involve superstitions about the supernatural.

The contrast is significant, but for our immediate purposes it is well to remember that the population of Iran still contains a considerable amount of Aryan blood—in some proportion which we now have no means of measuring. (The national name Iran, which they prefer to 'Persia,' means 'land of the Aryans.') Their language, modern Persian, is an Indo-European tongue, which has descended (a long way!) from the Old Persian spoken by Cyrus the Great and the Aryans whom he led to conquest of a large part of Asia. Their Mohammedan religion is not that of the Semitic nations of Islam: it is the religion of the Shi'a, which, although it had its origin in the activity of a Jew who was just making trouble, in conformity with his racial instincts (see Liberty Bell, April 1987, pp. 11-15), evolved into a religion which is distinctively non-Semitic in its preoccupations and in which an historian and ethnologist can discern a residue of the Magian religion of Zoroaster. And although Khomeini speaks of a Holy War in the Moslem tradition, I am sure that the spiritual force he has excited differs greatly from what would appear in a jihad by Arabs and the Arabic-speaking Semites of the Near East.

Now I do not mean to suggest that old Ronnie's sudden volte-face vis-à-vis Iran had any motive other than a purpose to contrive a war in which American lives could be spent uselessly and the resources of our bankrupt nation squandered even more lavishly than in "Foreign Aid," but I note an interesting form of Iranian wickedness that Ronnie never mentions.

I do not know the political affiliations of the editors and owners of the Tehran Times, a newspaper published in English in the capital city, but you may be sure that the newspaper is not hostile to Khomeini's régime. In its issue dated Rajab 14, 1407 = March 15, 1987, the Tehran Times featured an article that took its departure from the revocation of the doctorate rightly bestowed on the honest historian, Henri Roques, by the University of Nantes—a revocation ordered by the scabrous thugs who rule France for the Jews. The article noted the parallel with the “revocation” of the doctorate of Dr. Stäglich and other punishment inflicted on him for having written a truthful book, Der Auschwitz-Mythos, by the loathsome traitors who rule Germany for the world-destroyers. And the article reached the inescapable conclusion:

Such measures, taken in defiance of all legal norms, show that postwar Europe is a dictatorship, with the Jew as dictator. Nothing else can account for how, in two of the most civilized countries in the world, the basic provisions of the country’s legal code can be set aside: tenured staff dismissed, students stripped of their doctorates, judges fined 10 percent of their salaries with retrospective effect—all goes to show we are living in the nightmare reality of Orwell’s 1984.

The little that I know about the Tehran Times indicates that this article is not exceptional, that it is the newspaper’s editorial policy, necessarily approved by Khomeini, to discuss the Jewish problem honestly and frankly. Now surely old Ronnie could work up more enthusiasm for his projected war by reminding his American subjects of their moral duty to exterminate a nation so wicked that it does not revere the Supermen whom Yahweh specially created to rule the earth. □

BOOK REVIEW

Robert J. Lifton, The Nazi Doctors / Medical Killing and the Psychology of Genocide, New York: Basic Books Inc., 1986. xiii + 561 pages. $19.95.

By Charles E. Weber, Ph.D.

The Nazi Doctors is divided into three main parts entitled “Life Unworthy of Life” (pp. 22-144; Chapters 1-6), “Auschwitz: The Racial Cure” (pp. 148-414; Chapters 7-18) and “The Psychology of Genocide” (pp. 417-500; Chapters 19-21). The first chapter, “Sterilization and the Nazi Biomedical Vision,” is perhaps the most important and accurate in the book. It is largely derived from articles in the Journal of the American Medical Association published during 1933-1936 and points out, as we have pointed out in previous Bulletins, that Germany was a latecomer in this field, long after many states of the United States had enacted eugenic sterilization laws. Later chapters in this part develop the assertion that the assertion that the euthanasia program involving hopelessly insane persons promulgated after the beginning of the war, when food and hospital space became urgently needed, was a prelude to mass murder of Jews. The euthanasia program was suspended after protests against it, most notably the sermon of the Bishop of Münster on 3 August 1941 (p. 93), which Lifton summarizes.

The Second Part concentrates on the alleged activities at Auschwitz of the medical personnel there, especially Josef Mengele, as well as the interned physicians. This part is largely based on interviews with persons who served at Auschwitz but who are usually only identified by pseudonyms. The chapter on a certain Ernst B. (303-336) contains a number of details which contrast sharply with the general image of Auschwitz which Lifton presents. “B,” for example, characterized Josef Mengele as “the most decent colleague” he had met in Auschwitz.

The Third Part contain reflections on psychological phenomena and the development of hostility toward Jews (“anti-Semitism”). The psychological phenomenon which Lifton stresses is termed “doubling” (pp. 418-465), about which more below. In Lifton’s discussion of the development of the hostility toward Jews he remains essentially oblivious to European historical realities of the 1914-1945 period, during which hostility toward Jews in central and eastern Europe was greatly intensified by hyperinflations and the association of Communism with its largely Jewish leaders. Lifton, e.g., makes no mention of Bela Kun and his brutal Communist government in Hungary in 1919. Lifton cannot circumvent the fact there is no proof that Hitler ever ordered the extermination of Jews (p. 480).

Before the reader starts to wade—and “wade” seems to be an appropriate verb—through this massive volume, he would do well to leaf through the extensive source notes on pages 507-561 in order to note how Lifton is strongly dependent of the flood of “Holocaust” literature of the “Exterminationist” school. Indeed, Lifton is by no means the first author to delve into the rôle of physicians in German relocation camps during the Second World War. Lifton cites such titles as The Death Doctors (p. 510), Doctors of Death (p. 515), Ärzte in Auschwitz (a book published in the Soviet Zone of Germany; p. 521) and Les Médecines allemands et le national-socialisme (p. 518).

What, then, is Lifton’s claim to originality, what has he added of his own to the huge mass of “Holocaust” literature? According to the rear flap of the jacket, Lifton is “Distinguished Professor of Psychiatry and Psychology at John Jay College and the Graduate Center of the City University of New York” and is the author of various books. His previous books are on a range of topics, including veterans of the war in Vietnam, Mao Tse-tung and his “cultural revolution,” and the survivors of the atomic bomb attack on Hiroshima. Lifton is highly dependent on such well-known “Holocaust” literature as Raul Hilberg’s The Destruction of the European Jews and is not above referring with respect to such fictional works as The Boys from Brazil and Rolf Hochhut’s Der Stellvertreter (1963), which Lifton seems to have known in an English translation of the drama. Onto the mass of “Holocaust” literature which Lifton uses as his sources, he superimposes psychological explanations (which reak strongly of Sigmund Freud) for the behavior or alleged behavior of physicians in German relocation camps, with an almost exclusive focus on Auschwitz. Lifton’s longest chapter (pp. 337-383) is on a psychological analysis of Josef Mengele, whose grave was discovered in Brazil before Lifton completed his book. Lifton states that his work on The Nazi Doctors “began and ended with Josef Mengele.” The essence of Lifton’s psychological observations is contained in the chapters “Doubling: The Faustian Bargain” (pp. 418-429) and “The Auschwitz Self: Psychological Themes of Doubling” (pp. 430-465). The technical term “doubling” refers to a splitting of personality which enables a person to distance himself from his usual moral perceptions and behavior. Lifton refers to the famous lines 1112-1113 in Goethe’s Faust, which he gives in an English translation:

Zwei Seelen wohnen, ach! in meiner Brust,
Die eine will sich von der anderen trennen.

There is virtually no evidence that Lifton made use of the growing body of revisionist writings on the Extermination Thesis. That lack of concern with the critical material is the basis of some of the greatest weaknesses of his book. Lifton does make some passing references (pp. 513 and 518) to Christopher R. Browning’s Fateful Months: Essays on the Emergence of the Final Solution (1985), which was reviewed in Bulletin No. 9. Browning might have some faint claims to being a revisionist critic of the Extermination Thesis by virtue of the fact that he makes some concessions to the “Functionalist” school, which contends that the “Holocaust” evolved from the local conditions and actual circumstances of the war, in contrast to the “Internationalist” school, which contends that there was a central intention and plan to kill off all Jews of Europe. Lifton belongs to the latter school. I looked in vain for mention of the famous “six-million” figure in Lifton’s book. Perhaps revisionists have offered such plausible reasons for the rejection of this figure that even the likes of authors such as Lifton are now hesitant to use it. It is also possible that revisionists forced Lifton to admit (p. 131) the publication of T. Kaufman’s infamous Germany Must Perish [available from Liberty Bell Publications] as early as 1941, a book which advocated the genocide of the whole German nation by sterilization.

This brings up the second source of basic weakness in Lifton’s book, the small amount of attention paid to the fact that Germany was engaged in a desperate defensive struggle as a result of clear threats and acts of genocide against Germans in various forms, in addition to such threats as are found in Kaufman’s book, published, by the way, before the Wannsee Conference, which many Zionists claim to have been the starting point of specific planning for the extermination of all the Jews in Europe, a false claim (see Bulletin 20). Such threats and acts against Germany were the Bromberg massacres in 1939, the massive bombings of the German civilian population, the Allied demand for unconditional surrender (January, 1943), the Allied naval blockade of Europe which caused a scarcity of food that threatened the lives of all nations of Europe, including the Jews, the Nemmersdorf massacre in October, 1944, Ilya Ehrenburg’s exhortations to genocide, and above all the genocidal Morgenthau Plan, which was well known to the Germans. We now know also that anthrax bombs were being manufactured in Indiana for the annihilation of the German population by this horrible disease (see Bulletin 10). Greater awareness of the realities of wartime Europe would have clarified the attitudes of the physicians whom Lifton seeks to understand on a rather speculative, quasi-Freudian basis.

A third source of weakness in The Nazi Doctors is Lifton's dependence on a naive acceptance of some of the most doubtful sources, such as Rudolf Höss's Commandant of Auschwitz and the Gerstein papers, both of which have long been discredited by a number of revisionist authors. As an example of the naive use Lifton makes of sources, consider the following passages:

Hilberg has pointed out that the four Birkenau crematoria could burn a maximum of about 4,400 bodies a day. But in May and June, Hungarian Jews alone were being gassed at nearly 10,000 a day, so that the added trenches were required for burning bodies. When those trenches had to be dug, the four Jewish Sonderkommando units contained a force of between fifteen hundred to two thousand men, and by August, 1944, over twenty thousand corpses were burned on certain days. (p. 171)

..... Every ten minutes four corpses were thrown in. (p. 170; quoted from the Friedmann Archive in Haifa.)

As Auschwitz achieved its peak function of killing more than twenty thousand Jews in one twenty-four-hour period, with their bodies burned either in crematoria or open pits, 'the capacity for destruction was approaching the point of being unlimited.' (p. 493)

Indeed, Lifton must think that his readers' gullibility is unlimited! It scarcely requires fifth-grade arithmetic to calculate that 20,000 Jews a day would amount to 7,300,000 a year, which is well beyond the wildest of Zionist claims for Jewish mortality during the whole war. Since a crematory unit could only reduce about 12 bodies to ashes in a day (assuming two hours for each body and uninterrupted operation) nearly 200 units would have had to be employed. As is apparent from the actual ruins of Auschwitz, only a tiny fraction of that number of crematory units could have existed. But then, too, there is the nonsense about burning in "open pits." If Lifton would have consulted any number of revisionist authors, he would have learned that the high level of the underground water table in the Auschwitz area would have precluded burning in pits. If large numbers of bodies were to have been burned, they would undoubtedly have been burned above the ground on stacks of timbers in order to permit a maximal supply of oxygen, which, of course, would not have been available in pits. In fact, bodies were burned on huge stacks of timbers to dispose of them after the huge bombing raids on Dresden in February 1945. The three passages quoted above undermine the credibility of Lifton's methods and conclusions. Was Lifton unaware of the revisionist works that clearly refute such passages or did he feel incapable of coming to grips with them or was he too dishonest or so lacking in objectivity that he failed to consult revisionist writings which would have prevented his falling into such absurdities? Lifton depended heavily on authors, e.g., Dawidowicz, who alleged technical and statistical impossibilities in order to justify the six-million figure. Now it seems that this figure is being quietly abandoned by the more sophisticated advocates of the Extermination Thesis, including Lifton himself. Now there is a tendency to substitute the rather vague "millions" without the "six."

Lifton should have heeded the admonishment by the Jewish historian, Gitta Sereny, in the New Statesman of 2 November 1979 about the exaggeration, careless misunderstanding or even invention of "Holocaust" events, which had done "terrible disservice."

Lifton's book can be criticized not only for what it contains but also for what it does not contain. Lifton spent quite a few years (p. xi) in the preparation of this book, including interviews with scores and scores of persons (p. 7), travel in various countries and the status of a Fellow in the Max-Planck-Gesellschaft in Munich (p. 501), a support which is out of the question for revisionist historians. Lifton, however, does not mention evidence against the Exterminationist Thesis which should have been well known to a person who worked in this field for years and years. Examples are Himmler's order of 28 December 1942 to reduce the death rates in the concentration camps "at any price," the survival of large numbers of Jews in Europe who were too young or too old to be capable of work, the fact that in the territory of the German Federal Republic there were for some time after the war about as many Jews as there were in 1939 (see Bulletin 9), the many Allied photographs of Auschwitz taken in 1944, and the fact that as late as April 1943 there were still so many Jews in the Warsaw ghetto that they fought German forces for weeks. (For further examples see Bulletins 14-15 and their reprints in The Christian News of 6 July 1987, the GANPAC Brief of November 1987, and the Liberty Bell of December 1987.)

Some of Lifton's most frequently cited sources are those by Filip Müller, Dr. Miklos Nyiszli, Rudolf Vrba, Rudolf Höss, and Raul Hilberg. Revisionist historians have seriously eroded the credibility of these authors or have even exposed them as simply fraudulent. For a brief summary, see the valuable article by David McCalden in the January 1988 issue of the Liberty Bell. Much more detailed exposures can be found in the works of Dr. A. R. Butz, Dr. Wilhelm Stäglich, and others. Lifton cites Hermann Rauschning, whose Gespräche mit Hitler, has been exposed as a fraud by the Swiss historian Wolfgang Hänel. Lifton frequently cites the writings of Rudolf Höss, commandant of Auschwitz. In Der Auschwitz Mythos [available from Liberty Bell Publications in both German and English versions] Stäglich devotes some 40 pages to exposing the fraudulent nature of Höss's writings.

On page 466 Lifton drags in the old nonsense about the attempted genocide of the Poles. In spite of the very nasty treatment of the German minority in Poland during 1919-1939, Polish officers were given good treatment after their capture by the Germans, quite in contrast to those who fell into Soviet hands, who were massacred at Katyn and other localities. Lifton, of course, does not mention Katyn. (On these points, see Alfred Schickel's valuable little book, Vergessene Zeitgeschichte, where a careful analysis of Polish prewar and postwar census data is made. Reviewed in Bulletin 18.)

Lifton makes the flat statement that "eugenics has no scientific basis" (p. 24). This astonishing statement simply flies in the face of thousands, perhaps even tens of thousands of years of pragmatic human experience and practice, especially in breeding domestic animals, a remarkable accomplishment we see in the marvelous variety of economically valuable horses, dogs, and cattle. Eugenics is also supported by modern science, especially since Galton's Hereditary Genius (1869). However, what can we expect from a Jew, whose forbears have frequently been dealers in agricultural products (grain and livestock, especially) but who were seldom engaged in agricultural production?

We who have largely rejected the usual versions of the "Holocaust" material have examined the works of the advocates of the Extermination Thesis. However, the latter have almost completely disregarded revisionist works and have typically slunk away from open debate. Lifton is a man with the sort of outstanding verbal abilities so frequently encountered in members of his race developed over scores of generations of living in the Diaspora. Lifton's The Nazi Doctors has the potential of attaining the status of such "classics" of the Extermination Thesis as those by Hilberg, Reitlinger, and Dawidowicz. It is imperative that Lifton's errors, distortions and false perspectives be analyzed far more extensively than I have done in these pages. I hope, however, that I have been able to point to some of the main aspects of this important task. □

by
Jim Taylor
(Foreign Correspondent)

Intelligence operations, always precarious and seldom totally secret, oftentimes cause more problems than they settle. Since, during my career as a journalist, I have also done some intelligence work for several countries, I believe I can provide readers with facts they can find no place else.

In this column you will read about American CIA disasters never mentioned during the over-long and boring Iran-Contra hearings last summer. This information comes from my invaluable and always reliable sources in South America, Cuba, and Europe.

As for the many nefarious schemes carried out by Lieutenant Colonel Oliver North and Admiral John Poindexter, the enormous amount of unshredded paperwork involved in their operations would alone have been sufficient to preclude any long-term success. In other words, too many people knew about it, or could have known about it, the White House not being a place where information is kept secret from the grapevine. At the Hearings, it was mentioned that the committee waded through more than 134,000 pages of released documents. Since the average book or novel contains no more than 300 pages, that amounts to reading over 440 books from cover to cover. And these documents are only the ones that Colonel North and his fast-working secretary did not have time to shred, burn, or carry out under her clothing. My view is that any operation with that much paperwork is doomed to failure.

In my intelligence assignments, I was able to confine the necessary paperwork—phone numbers, dates, contacts, etc.—to about one-half of a page in a very small notebook. Then I memorized the entire lot, or disguised it on business cards. Anyway, making many notes was unnecessary. No successful agent could work efficiently under the burden of reams of paper identifying every prospective move or objective.

Of course, the entire hearings on the Iran arms sales accomplished nothing—except to provide an alternate summer side show to the usual daytime television soap operas. And polls showed that viewers preferred their daytime serials anyway. The limited aid to the Contras means that these sales did not benefit the U.S. or the Contras. But it did succeed in making Iran nearly invincible to any type of attack by Iraq, and that, in turn, greatly pleased Iran's main partner—Israel. So from the Zionist view it might be called a success.

One of the unwritten rules in intelligence work is that there are no such things as coincidences. The stakes are too high to assume blithely that any confluence of events is merely accidental or fortuitous. And you don't simply rely upon serendipity or even upon facts. You make things happen. Then they become facts. And you never allow the other side to create facts detrimental to your own interests, which is what happens to the U.S. constantly and almost invariably.

Many of the American mistakes in foreign affairs and intelligence work are caused by Congress's over-stepping the powers accorded it by our Constitution. We often hear in Washington that the system is not working, a very trite but very true statement. Of course it isn't! One reason is that Congress won't allow it to work. Losers always scream the loudest and the present Congress is made up of the largest percentage of born losers in history. You must have found that out by watching them last summer.

While the great authors of that American masterpiece, the Federalist Papers, might have been dismayed by the 1987 Hearings, it seems clear they would not have been surprised by the further encroachment of Congress on responsibilities reserved to the executive branch.

The inept political hacks who tried in 1987 to wrap themselves in the flag would not have fooled the great realist, Alexander Hamilton.

Congress has now set up a veto power over everything the President does. Look at the reaction to the nomination of Bork for the Supreme Court as an example. The so-called War Powers Act of 1973 is just an example of this unlimited encroachment. The Boland Amendment and the earlier Clark Amendment are other good examples.<sup>1</sup>

Hamilton feared that the Congress might use tedious delays, continuous meetings and intrigues, plus contemptible compromises, to em-

1. These changes in the Constitution, although ostensibly designed to protect the people from the un-Constitutional acts of recent Presidents, amount to an alteration in the form of our government and could be of great importance and disastrous effect if, at some future time, it should happen that the Presidency was occupied by a man who wished to further American interests. At present, of course, when the Jews boast that the Congress is the best their money could buy, the struggle between the two branches of government is merely in-fighting within a gang of devoted Zionists, plus public controversy of the kind necessary to keep the American voters from suspecting that they are always allowed only to choose between the same thing under different names.

barrass and hamstringing the Presidency. Isn't that what has happened? Congress has done exactly what Mr. Hamilton predicted and it has greatly diminished our power abroad. Every small nation realizes that the word of any American President is worth nothing.

* * *

Senator John Kerry (D-Mass.) has pursued with vigor the allegations that Southern Air pilots flew weapons to the Contras and returned with loads of cocaine and marijuana... Julio Zavala, a Contra leader, told the San Francisco Examiner that he gave $500,000 in drug profits to the Contras... In July of 1986, a State Department report said that a senior member of Eden Pastora's group fighting the Marxists agreed with a Colombian narcotics trafficker that his pilots would aid in transporting dope into the U.S. in exchange for financial assistance to the Contras... A Senate committee heard secret testimony from Mr. Ramón Milian-Rodríguez, a convicted money launderer, who said he passed ten million dollars from the Medellin Cartel in Colombia to the CIA through Felix Rodríguez, a Colombian operative.

But these few items which have surfaced in the U.S. are nothing compared to the reports that I have received from South America.

All of these cases concerning CIA agents are widely known and stories about them have appeared on the front pages of newspapers in South America, Cuba, and in Europe. But, strangely enough, not a word about them has been printed in the U.S. press. Or is it strange?

Since the Kennedy administration, the CIA has recruited agents and various types of specialists inside Cuba. And, believe it or not, the CIA is still trying to knock off President Fidel Castro; and they are still using ineffective Laurel-and-Hardy methods to do it. One might logically assume that after nearly thirty years of abject failures on this mission, the CIA would abandon it. But such is not the case.

I shall mention one case, that of two exposed CIA agents in Cuba, a brother-and-sister act, about whom a television program was made. A detailed account of the recruitment by the CIA of Gladys Oliva García Hernández and her brother, Néstor Noberto García Hernández, was shown on a Latin-American TV network called Anguloancho "Wide Angel."

I suppose the CIA operates on the old theory that every man or woman has his or her price. In this case, it amounted to $1,500 per month, although sister Gladys arranged things so that $1,000 went to her and only $500 to her brother, whom she helped recruit. For the benefit of any Women's-Lib type readers, I note that no one can accuse the CIA of discriminating against women in this employment.

The sister turned traitor<sup>2</sup> to her native land first, after meeting numerous times with CIA officials in Miami, where she had lived. On visits to Cuba, she took many expensive American gifts to her brother in order to soften him up.

In her advice to her brother, however, she was categorical: "If you want money, you will have to earn it in some way," she told him. Of course, she made it clear to him what the way was.

"It was one of those things that happen in life," Néstor said before the television cameras, as if seeking to justify his greed and his conduct. "In view of her insistence, I asked her what I had to do."

On the same program, Gladys explained how she had planned to get her brother out of Cuba and to the U.S. "The idea was to have him take advantage of a planned trip he was to make, to work in Nicaragua, and then escape across the border from there in a light plane," she said.

This initial plan did not work. So she got him recruited by the CIA in March 1985 to work inside Cuba.

Back in the U.S., Gladys went to the CIA planning officer, Roberto Martin, and told him that her brother was willing to serve the U.S. against his own country.

"Mr. Martin checked with his superiors in Washington and called me in Miami a few days later," she told the TV audience. Then she was given a lie-detector test in Washington, which she passed. This was followed by a period of intensive CIA training as a special foreign agent. She exhibited to the audience sensitive paper and hollow crayons, used to conceal pieces of paper with code numbers on them, and a radio given her by the CIA.

She explained to her brother the frequency on which he would receive messages from the CIA and an address in Costa Rica to which he should send his messages.

The CIA also provided poor, gullible Néstor with two phone numbers to call if he were ever in a capitalist country and managed to escape, and was unable to contact his sister. One was a Miami-area code with the number 447-7649. The other was a 24-hour-a-day manned number in Washington, D.C., 688-2941.

2. Since there is no indication that Señorita García (who claims to be also Señora Alonso) had ever been connected with the anti-Communist underground in Cuba, which was almost totally liquidated after the affair at the Bay of Pigs in 1961, when she was a child, it must be assumed that she accepted the present government in Cuba and was sufficiently in its favor to be permitted to travel back and forth between Cuba and the United States to enjoy high life in this country. She therefore proposed to betray a country to which she professed to be loyal.

Of course, when these two spies were caught in Cuba, Cuban agents in Miami called these numbers. And equally of course, the CIA, in true spy-drama fashion, left these captured spies to their fate.

Néstor explained how he began to work for the CIA in his apartment and about his new bank account in Miami. He also stated that the entire $1500 in CIA money each month was in his name but that he had an agreement with his sister that she would get $1000 of it monthly, with only $500 per month for him. This deal doesn't seem too fair to me, because Néstor seemed to be taking most of the risks, while his sister, safe in Miami most of the time, got twice as much CIA money from the good ole reliable American taxpayers.

But Gladys had other ulterior motives, too. When the pair were caught, a note written in English was found in her address book reading: "To whom it may concern, I wish the total of my CIA bank account to be given to Gladys Alonso." It was explained that "Alonso" was her married name. It was also clear that she intended to finagle her brother out of his CIA money by getting him to sign this paper. By this time, Néstor's share stood at $31,000 in a Miami bank account. She said she fully intended for him to put his signature to this paper.

The sister visited her brother many times in Havana and passed on to him the training she had received. She warned him that he could never pass this training on to anyone else.

Her new brother-agent received instructions every two weeks and was instructed never to write anything down.

His first assignment was to get an accurate health report on the physical condition of Mr. Castro. Then the CIA asked for details of Cuban construction work in Nicaragua. They also wanted flight data on the SR-71 Blackbird-type Plane, made in the Soviet Union, and which regularly flies over the U.S. coastline from Miami to Boston taking pictures. Next, the CIA asked for the latest information on the rapidly-developing computer science in Cuba. In all, thirty such requests were made by the CIA and old Néstor complied as best he could, sending thirty-three messages to CIA headquarters in Langley, Virginia, from May of 1986 to April of 1987.

Also shown on the television program was other evidence obtained by the Cuban State Security (a sort of combined CIA-FBI type of agency). Six letter messages sent to Montevideo, Uruguay, were all intercepted by the Cubans and the Russians.

Of course, the Cuban intelligence agents were carefully watching this pair from the beginning. "I never thought we would be discovered," sadly intoned Gladys when arrested. "The CIA assured us we would never be found out."

I, of course, have my own doubts about the Intelligence Quotas of this pair, because anyone who would believe what the CIA told them can't be very bright, or have much knowledge of foreign affairs either.

"I never sensed anybody was watching me....never. My arrest came as a complete surprise. I wasn't even struck by the way it was done," said Néstor.

I cannot define exactly what he meant when he used the English word "struck." In translation from Spanish to English, such descriptive words of action are not always interchangeable.

At this writing, the Cuban prosecutor handling this major spy case, Jorge Bodes Torres, stated that the two are still under provincial arrest and added that the lengthy legal steps against them would not be completed until after about a year of judicial hearings. Justice moves slowly in Latin countries. I don't know how many other spies the CIA has inside Cuba at this moment; but I hope that some of them are brighter and more resourceful than the García Hernández brother and sister.

Now the scene in the CIA's comedy shifts from Cuba to Argentina, where, thanks to Mr. Rogelio García Lupo of Prensa Latina, I have information about another spy, this one an avowed terrorist. Mr. Lupo has written a complete story about the arrest in São Paulo, Brazil, of an Argentine agent of the CIA. Mr. Alfredo Mario Mingolla, in a drug clean-up operation. This captured agent of the U.S. didn't waste any time before telling of the CIA's involvement in a world-wide illegal drug network.

Since Mr. Mingolla freely admitted that he was employed by the CIA and he was arrested in an anti-drug operation, this could become a time bomb for the CIA in South America. He was arrested by federal police in an operation that smashed a gang of smugglers of narcotics headed by a Bolivian army officer going by the pseudonym, "Captain Flores." The gang had in their possession 357 kilograms of pure cocaine.<sup>3</sup>

3. Before we become supercilious about the corruption that is normal, south of the Rio Grande, we should observe that Les Martin, in his booklet, The Godfathers of North Dakota (Detroit Lakes, Minnesota; Pro-American Press, 1987), quotes the confession of Daniel Murray, who was recruited from the Teamster's Union and the Social Security Administration to carry shipments of cocaine from various locations in Florida to the Attorney General of North Dakota, whom the Governor of the state delegated to receive the shipments. Murray says that when tried to leave a gang that had become too viciously criminal even for him, the Governor of North Dakota threatened to have his wife beaten and raped. He left the State Capitol alive only because he was prepared to shoot his way out, and after he succeeded in reaching another state, he was "framed" by the Social Security Administration in reprisal for his desertion of the Governor's gang. Most Americans rightly think of North Dakota as a principally agrarian state with an Aryan population, and they forget that, according to the boast of Morris N. Kertzer in Formerly a Roman Catholic priest of the Marxist persuasion, Mr. Mingolla lived in Bolivia from 1980 to 1983. There he was an agent of political repression under orders from Colonel Luis Arce Gómez, minister of the interior.

None of this in his record prevented him from being hired by the CIA to establish what is called the Anti-Communist Confederation of American Societies, known as CAUSA. The CIA is always big on names and code names, even when not needed. In addition, he ran the liaison between the CIA and a group of drug traffickers known as the Southern Cone.

When arrested, Mr. Mingolla told authorities that the CIA had sent him for training to the School of the Americas in the Panama Canal Zone (now just Panamá). They wanted this one-time priest to engage in an "anti-Communist" struggle in Latin America. He was equipped with an army identity card issued to him by the Argentine military intelligence service.

In Mingolla's group was an Italian terrorist, Stepano della Chiaie, who was arrested in Venezuela and extradited to Italy.

Recently, the U.S. State Department has issued new releases claiming that Cuba and other members of the Soviet bloc have printed forged documents to impair America's "image" around the world. Whether this is true or not, the State Department doesn't need any help in damaging the U.S. "image" abroad.

Our government and especially our State Department is almost entirely responsible for America's disrepute—not other countries. Neither Cuba nor any other state needs to falsify documents to disparage the U.S. The many disgraceful and underhanded acts of terrorism committed throughout the world by the U.S. government make that unnecessary.

Does a nation like the U.S. need any help in acquiring contempt and hatred after using the powerful guns of the U.S.S. New Jersey to kill or wound about 10,000 innocent people in Lebanon, just to please Israel? I think not. And we didn't need any help when the U.S., while forcing other nations not to sell arms to Iran because of our highly-promoted "Operation Staunch," actually sold and still sells weapons to the Iranians via Israel. We made and developed our own infamy without needing assistance from other nations.

Today's American Jew (New York, McGraw-Hill, 1967), Jews early flocked into North Dakota to take political and financial control of the stupid Aryans. The state is also adorned with some mongrels, half-Jew, half-Indian, one of whom went to Washington as a Congressman from South Dakota, a state which the invaders may have equally corrupted.

Furthermore, the sad spectacle of the Iran Hearings by Congress certainly helped us to become more than ever despised as a country, without foreign assistance, except from the outlaw state of Israel, the military power which has been driving us to our downfall for more than thirty years.

We cut our own throats. Cuba didn't need to do it. By years of doing Israel's criminal bidding through an illegal and suicidal foreign policy, with scandalous misappropriation of government funds, bribery, complicity in the smuggling of arms and narcotics under the rule of the international Zionists, and even murdering Colonel Qaddafi's little baby, Hana, we earned the odium in which we are now held by civilized peoples and even barbarians and savages. The Reagan administration needed no help in further befouling our "image." America has been disgraced by Americans, not by foreigners or the man in the moon.

Thanks to buyers in the U.S. during the last fifteen years, Colombia has become the world leader in the production of baneful drugs, which is now the major industry there. It also has had the greatest impact upon the political, economic, and social life of Colombia. The trade has been built up since the early 1970s on the thriving, illicit export to the United States. Americans, of all ages and social status, continue to demand ever more Colombian narcotics and pay ever more for them, so that this powerful and enormously profitable industry has extended its evil tentacles into all aspects of national life of Colombia, once a naturally poor nation, but now grown rich.

What once amounted to nothing more than Colombian Indians selling coca leaves in the nearest town as "a source of energy"<sup>4</sup> has ballooned into world-wide business centered in the U.S.

4. The coca plant (coca in Quechuan) is a shrub that attains a height of six to seven feet; it grows wild in the mountainous regions of the Andes, including some lowlands. The leaves, which contain the alkaloid cocaine, were, from time immemorial, gathered by the Indians of Peru, Chile, and Bolivia and used as a stimulant as well as in religious rites, the plant being regarded as a special gift of the gods. Indians, especially those engaged in physical labor and almost universally in the higher altitudes, carried a supply of coca leaves in a pouch (called hallqui), usually with unslaked lime or crude quinine to season them, and stopped three or four times a day to masticate the leaves in lieu of food. With coca leaves, a man may work hard as long as three days without eating or feeling hunger, so that persons who rely excessively on the leaves become emaciated, but without much loss of strength. After the Spanish conquest of the Incan Empire, the use of coca leaves spread throughout most of South America and the West Indies, and to some comparable regions in Asia, and the plant was cultivated in regions outside its natural habitat. Before the great demand for cocaine throughout the world and the es-

The well-know weekly Latin-American magazine Semana, stated that the production of cocaine has reached such magnitude that the government (of Colombia) views eradication of it as impossible, especially since the U.S. spends over one hundred billion dollars yearly to purchase the precious white powder in Colombia.

Until about ten years ago, the trade was run by only three bosses of the Medellin cartel. Now over one hundred firms are in business to keep up with the ever-increasing demands of the United States. Each plantation, factory, or laboratory has a precise function, ranging from cultivation and processing to storage, transportation, and distribution.

One of the basic pillars that support this elaborate structure is obviously the U.S.-backed, ruthless military government, which protects the capitalists of the highly profitable business, so that this industry has spread all over the country. Colombian officials maintain that the U.S. will not allow them to halt or even slow down the production of cocaine. When you mention that the U.S. has sent military teams with helicopters to search out producing areas, knowledgeable officials just laugh and say that this action was merely a highly-publicized sideshow to fool the American people into believing their government actually wants to halt illegal drugs. They say these staged raids were on selected sites only after the operators had been warned and made preparations accordingly. The raids were never meant to accomplish but phony publicity.

In political terms, starting in 1978, the "narcos" as they are known in Colombia, through some skillful intrigue by the CIA, were able to penetrate all the traditional political parties at the regional level through financing election campaigns and by other means. Then U.S. money was used to go beyond mere campaign financing to electing narcotics traffickers to local and national posts.

Exposés of the use of this dirty money led to the murder of Rodrigo Lara, the Minister of Justice. He was gunned down in March of 1984 by killers believed to be in the pay of the CIA-financed "narcos."

Establishment of a vast industry to supply it, coca leaves were gathered from wild plants by the Indian peasants of Colombia and sold cheaply in the towns; now, of course, the shrub is grown on plantations and the precious alkaloid extracted from the leaves in nearby factories, producing a potent powder of little bulk, so that a valuable quantity of it may be carried in a very small receptacle. For vivid descriptions of the use of coca leaves by the Indians and mestizos of the Andes, see the Peruvian stories by Vincente Blasco Ibáñez, who is best known in English-speaking countries for the books translated as The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse and Blood and Sand.

Coinciding with the use of major U.S. banks for shifting profits illegally, the Colombian drug dealers took over legitimate business ventures and converted millions of American dollars into Colombian pesos.

A massive exchange of dollars into pesos took place between 1978 and 1982, during the administration of President Julio César Turbay Ayala, by American banks operating the Colombian Central Bank. Colombia's international currency reserves were immediately increased from less than two billion to over six billion in an unprecedented jump never before encountered in the annals of international banking. In the U.S. and Europe no one asked about the origin of this money. Everyone knew, of course. And the CIA didn't want it publicized in the U.S. press. It never was until now.

So, the power of the drug barons in Colombia and in the U.S. remains not only untouched and unchallenged, but securely protected. Under the Reagan administration, the U.S. has become the largest market for drugs in the world. In fact, the U.S. buys more than all the rest of the world combined. That follows the pattern of greed in the United States. We not only have the most cars and television sets; we also lead by a wide margin in cocaine consumption. When Americans do something, they do it big. Americans like to think big, whether dealing in politics or cocaine.

It may come as a complete surprise to most readers to learn that the Reagan administration has in many ways become the sponsor of the illegal drug trade. Last December, the White House submitted to Congress a budget proposal to reduce the appropriations earmarked for the fight against illegal drugs by 2.9 billion dollars. When you cut out nearly three billion in such funds, it indicates that you don't wish to curb the use of narcotics or limit addiction to them, doesn't it?

According to recent government reports, there are twenty-six million regular users of illegal drugs in America. I think the actual number far exceeds this figure.<sup>5</sup>

5. As will be obvious from what follows, cocaine has superseded heroin as the favorite of Americans who have graduated from marijuana, which seems to be non-addictive in the sense that it does not produce psychological changes that make the individual dependent on the drug, but is habit-forming in the sense that the user continues to crave an escape from reality, and he commonly turns to pharmaka that satisfy that craving more abundantly. Heroin (diacetylmorphine) produces intense and irrational euphoria, and, in some characters, may incite to injudicious and temerarious action immediately after it is taken, but the general effect is lassitude and indifference to everything except the illusions produced by the drug. Cocaine, almost invariably taken in the form of the hydrochloride, produces an illusion of greatly increased mental capacities and does produce extraordinary physical vigor and endurance. Its great and growing popularity is

Bankers and drug dealers cheered when Mr. Reagan assisted them by aborting the much-touted "anti-drug campaign." About all that's left of it is Mrs. Reagan, telling youngsters to say "no" to addictive drugs, while her husband says a loud "no" to funds to fight the promotion of them. That is what you call irony.

Representative Charles Rangel (D-Mich.), chairman of the House Select committee on Narcotics Abuse and Control, predicted last year that the new budget for measures to curb the illegal drug trade would greatly impair any official plans to combat it. His view turned out to be correct, which is exactly what the White House seemed to want. Both Democratic and Republican members of Congress have accused Mr. Reagan of betraying young people by saying a loud "no" to efforts to halt this evil merchandising of narcotics that destroy the mind and will.

A Federal expert on drugs, Robert Newman, stated that the president's program is incommensurate with the task at hand. He told the press that Mr. Reagan, while claiming to be fighting drug use, was cutting off even the funds earmarked for the treatment of addicts.

Mr. Julio Martinez, the New York commissioner who deals with the abuse of drugs, said that consumption of narcotics in the U.S. is a mortal epidemic that is spreading through all sectors of our society. So it is. You cannot argue against these facts. But who is responsible? As in Prohibition days, both the government and the greedy businessmen, along with their bankers, are responsible. Mr. Martinez also predicted that drug consumption will increase at an alarming rate, even more rapidly than the current official estimates project.

"Crack," which is manufactured openly in several U.S. laboratories, is the drug of the future. Since it is cheaper and easier to obtain, this derivative of cocaine, which is usually smoked in a pipe or hand-rolled cigarettes, is generally sold openly all over America in small vials for five to ten dollars each. Cocaine, by contrast, is priced partly a result of the fact that it does not incapacitate individuals until after years of use, and partly due to its reputation as an aphrodisiac. It is said not to have a direct sexual effect, but seems to have, partly by stimulation of physical functions and even more largely by the psychosomatic effect of faith that it will greatly enhance sexual powers and appetites. It does produce pleasurable sensations, including mild euphoria, and, like heroin, though perhaps less quickly, produces physiological changes that make the individual dependent on it. The addict deprived of cocaine experiences great discomfort and often acute distress, but does not become virtually insane, as often happens when addicts of heroin are unable to obtain it. No one dares to investigate the relation between the use of drugs to escape from an awareness of spiritual poverty, and the systematic sabotage of children's minds in the public schools to destroy self-respect and racial instincts.

at nearly $100 for a similar quantity. So we now have the "poor man's" cocaine just as we had bathtub gin for the less affluent during Prohibition.<sup>6</sup>

Recently, Bolivian Senator Daniel Cabezas said that drug trafficking in his country is now of such great proportions that were it to end suddenly, the economy of Bolivia would crumble. Prensa Latina and Granma,<sup>7</sup> the reliable Havana newspaper, quoted Senator Cabezas, who happens to be the former chairman of the Bolivian parliament's anti-drug commission. According to his figures, the U.S. pours over three billion dollars yearly into Bolivia's economy, and even more than this into Colombia's. This amounts to more than half of Bolivia's foreign debt. However, the bulk of this money goes to ten to fifteen families, who divert these funds to investments out of the country. Left in Bolivia each year is an amount of perhaps five hundred million dollars that goes to coca planters, grinders, refiners, and other links in the chain which ends in New York and Miami.

Senator Cabezas also made it clear that, upon a request from the U.S. authorities, Bolivian banks were ordered to change dollars into local currency without inquiring where the money came from. Isn't that nice? For the drug operators, I mean.

The industry that supplies cocaine to the U.S. is so important to Bolivia that it provides employment for 380,000 persons out of a total population of only seven million. It amazes me that it requires this many paid workers just to supply U.S. dealers with these illegal products. They now grow coca on 65,000 hectares of land [approx. 160,620 U.S. acres] in Bolivia alone—just to supply the depraved cravings of American addicts.

Senator Cabezas, who also claims to be a psychiatrist, defends this "traditional" coca-leaf production on the grounds that it is very beneficial, given the amount of vitamins and nutritional supplements the coca provides.<sup>8</sup> He also contended that the production of coca-leaves is justified because it allows peasants to survive and live better than ever before. That seems nonsense to me, but it may appeal to the "underprivileged" dregs of mankind.

6. During Prohibition, Americans in general obtained what they paid for in the real money that was then in use. When you consider the following figures, measure them against the typical fact that in most American cities banks paid tellers $90. per month, advancing them to $100. after years of satisfactory service. Genuine, unadulterated Scotch whisky could be purchased from a reliable bootlegger for $20. to $25. a fifth. At the opposite extreme, a pint of potable alcohol, which would produce intoxication and of which the somewhat raw-taste could be disguised in cocktails, could be had for $0.50. Even cheaper alcohol could be obtained, but it was often poisonous and sometimes lethal. The well-established bootleggers disapproved of the sale of poisonous concoctions, and they sometimes arranged with the huge army of Federal agents to raid and convict the vendors of noxious stuff, thus both giving the agents a "success" and eliminating competition that cast discredit on honest bootlegging.

The coca that is not consumed in the leaf is used to manufacture the basic paste (the stage prior to crystallization) and then to cocaine hydrochloride, the finished product. It has been estimated by the government that Bolivia's coca leaves now yield as much as 150,000 tons of the hydrochloride annually, which, in turn, will permit the country's profit to grow 30 to 50 times higher.

Just how much more the more than three billion dollars in earnings can be increased depends on the routes used to get the illegal drugs to America. There are three main delivery routes, the Bolivia-to-Miami one, which is the largest and most profitable, and two others. The others are the group that operates through the Cayman Islands and Bahamas; and the European market. Even part of the European deliveries end up back-tracking to the streets of Manhattan. Senator Cabezas pointed out that the astronomical profits come only from U.S. sales. Europeans and other users won't pay just any high price—but Americans do so willingly.

At the same time, he denounced Washington's unilateral and arbitrary approach to the problem, which pins the entire blame for America's drug hunger on the poor peasants and producers in Bolivia, a nation which, he said, actually spends several times the amount the U.S. does (in proportion to their respective resources) to curb drug trafficking.<sup>9</sup>

The Bolivian Foreign Minister, Guillermo Bedregal, told Prensa Latina that the U.S. refused several times to wipe out the unlawful traffic in drugs, which constantly causes murder of innocent people, by spending the three hundred million dollars required to do so. He stated that the U.S. could have halted all such activities for that relatively small amount in 1987. In five years, he maintains, it will take at least ten billion dollars to do the same job. In addition, he believes that actually halting all importation of illegal drugs into the U.S. would cause a national crisis in American economy. Nobody in Washington seriously wants to halt it, as I have been writing for years. Now you are reading it from others who are even better informed.

8. Since coca-leaves come from green, chlorophyllaceous plants, they do release, when chewed, small quantities of organic minerals and perhaps some vitamins, but none of these, of course, is retained when cocaine, the alkaloid, is extracted from them.

9. No one knows, of course, how much of sums appropriated for a specific purpose remain to be used for it after the needs of political looters have been satisfied. An expensive and widely circulated market letter may or may not be accurate in its economic prognostications, but it is indubitably correct when it describes governmental action as "as criminal politics."

This is why all we can expect from Mr. Reagan are the highly-publicized Rambo-type operations which accomplish nothing. The U.S. makes a weak pretense of supporting the world-wide anti-drug struggle. Mr. Reagan knows that wiping out the illegal drug trade is not in the best interest of business America. Therefore it will not be done.

From Cuban sources, I have learned that the U.S. has unwittingly employed many double agents inside Cuba—agents in our pay who are loyal only to the Cuban Premier, Fidel Castro.

Major Florentino Azpillaga, late of the Cuban armed forces and the latest “defector” to the U.S., has also verified these facts in Washington at the highest levels. He clearly stated that the CIA totally underestimated the Cuban espionage service, which has proven to be far more sophisticated than was commonly believed by so-called experts in Washington.

Naturally, his disclosures and other information available to me cast grave doubts upon the quality and reliability of U.S. intelligence operations world wide. Anyway, our operations inside Cuba are now suspect, to say the least. Previously, the CIA had maintained that these costly operations inside Cuba were highly productive and of excellent quality. Now we realize that this was never true.

This doesn't mean much now. The CIA was already embarrassed and in disrepute after many revelations of its bungling and ineptitude. The agency had recently been disgraced by stationing in the U.S. Embassy in Moscow some of its agents, who were spies for the Soviets, and by many other failures, including spreading lies about Libya which everyone knew were not true. The miserable episode last fall when the Reagan administration tried to force Chad and the French Army there to attack and overthrow Colonel Qaddafi in Libya, and even offered them the latest in American weapons, was another example of both the CIA's methods and our foreign policy in general. Another failure of the CIA, never mentioned by anyone except me, is in Israel. Although the Israelis know all American intelligence secrets,<sup>10</sup> the CIA had been

10. According to gossip that was current in Washington, a civilian who was appointed to head the CIA in the late 1970s was dismayed when he saw how many of the directors of totally unable to obtain from anyone in Israel the slightest bit of useful intelligence information. The Russians recently mopped up American espionage activities inside the Soviet Union, assisted by the CIA's Marine guards and a few other at our Moscow embassy.

One beleaguered CIA official said that Major Azpillaga's disclosures may focus renewed scrutiny on the CIA's foreign counter-intelligence world-wide, which has already been under Congressional criticism for a long time.

“A lot of high-ranking people are hot under the collar about this,” said the CIA official. “We certainly underestimated the ability of the Cubans. We never even realized that the operations we thought were good were entirely theirs all along.”

According to the major who defected from Cuba, several Cuban government officials, thought to be working for the U.S., were, in fact, feeding the CIA misleading or useless information prepared by the DGI, Mr. Castro's very efficient foreign intelligence directorate.

CIA agents who “debriefed” the Cuban major were startled to learn that supposedly successful U.S. operations in Cuba were being run by Cuban intelligence, not the CIA.

“Several of these Cubans were polygraphed<sup>11</sup> by us and passed,” the CIA told the press. “The fact that they went undetected by us for so long is poor trade craft by us. We were had.”

False information from these compromised intelligence operations was used by the CIA and the White House at face value to analyze and direct U.S. foreign policy. The real extent of the damage to the U.S. abroad cannot be estimated.

departments, who were immediately under him, had accipitrine noses and rattlesnake eyes—and would, of course, be loyal only to their own nation and race. “Where can I find a friend in that outfit?” he is reported to have asked the friends to whom he confided his feeling of helplessness.

11. The “polygraph” is essentially a sphygmomanometer with a few auxiliary devices. The CIA relies on periodic examination of all employees of lower rank by “polygraph” experts, who are almost all Jews. Cynics may exaggerate when they say that the purpose of such examinations is to prevent penetration of the CIA by American spies. The efficacy of the “lie-detector” depends on the race of the person questioned, and may be limited to Aryans. According to officers in Intelligence during the “war” in Korea, Mongolians are by nature invulnerable to testing by the “polygraph.” It seems likely that well-trained Aryans can also defeat the instrument, although the professional operators of “polygraphs” deny this, with the proviso that the person to be questioned will have been given an exhaustive physical examination to determine whether or not he has used certain drugs that are known to be prophylactic. Whether an Aryan can acquire by training alone the ability to defeat the “polygraph” seems to be an open question, so far as is known from published data.

The 40-year-old Major Aspillaga headed Cuban intelligence operations in Czechoslovakia. He defected on June 6, 1987 by slipping across the border with his girl friend. Taped interviews with him were beamed by Radio Marti in Florida to Cuba late last year.

The DGI of Cuba, Soviet trained, is recognized as one of the best in world.

Latin-Americans, especially in Mexico and Peru, protested the reign of former Assistant Secretary of State for Latin America, Elliot Abrams. I wonder if they know that this "American" diplomat is a member of a group which has been described as a "Medieval family" in modern times. Christopher Hitchens has written a story about this highly influential family of Jews in America. Like many of Mr. Reagan's strongest backers, Mr. Abrams stemmed from "intellectuals" whose only common feature, according to Mr. Hitchens, is their "Trotskyite" origin and kinship.<sup>12</sup>

The writer claims that he was absolutely amazed when he pursued research among the circle of friends around Mr. Norman Podhoretz. This fellow Podhoretz wrote a 370-page book to explain his rapid transition from hard-line radical to arch conservative. It is entitled, oddly enough, Breaking Reeds. Mr. Podhoretz has exercised political tutelage over Mr. Reagan since as far back as 1979.

His entire middle-class Jewish family has been involved in the conquest of power in Washington. Mr. Podhoretz is married to Midge Decter, whose daughter married Mr. Abrams. Midge's son by Podhoretz, John Podhoretz, is executive director of Insight, the weekly publication of the Washington Times.

Midge is a member of a group who urge the United States and Israel to withdraw from the United Nations and go it alone against the rest of mankind. Everyone knows who, in that combination, would be the hard-working gelding, and who would be the rider on its back. Yet Midge pretends she is considering American interests!

This clan seems to have the race's amazing ability to extend power, especially through the press and various political groups which are only fronts to create and control American public opinion. This is not really a difficult task, because nearly all Americans readily believe even patently false propaganda and are their own worst enemies. We are self-doomed. We have not been conquered by outsiders. We are surrendering by permission of most of our citizens.

12. Needless to say, "Trotskyite" is an euphemism for 'Jewish.' During the 1930s, squabbles between "Stalinists," who were accused of "anti-Semitic internationalism," and "Trotskyites," whose messiah was Leib Bronstein (alias Trotsky) and who accepted the moral superiority and leadership of "anti-capitalist" Jews throughout the world, greatly facilitated the dissemination of Communist propaganda among Americans who thought that a glib verbosity made them "intellectuals." Many light-headed youngsters, who began by taking one or the other side in the factitious dispute, were thus recruited for Bolshevik activities.

A daughter of Mr. Podhoretz is married to Steve Munson, who was Jeane Kirkpatrick's chief adviser when she served as Israel's second ambassador at the U.N., superficially disguised as the U.S. representative there. Mr. Munson now heads the news department of the Voice of America, where he can issue more un-American propaganda for the benefit of world Zionists. Another relative, renegade Ben Waterberg, who backed Vice President Humphrey's campaign for the White House, is a cousin of Podhoretz.

Yet another cousin of Mr. Podhoretz is the notoriously uncouth and very abrasive Max Kampelman, the U.S. delegate to the Geneva Arms Control talks with the Soviets. He, naturally, steered the talks to certain failure. For his ineffective efforts, he has been highly praised by both Mr. Reagan and Mr. Shultz. So, what else is new?

There are still more cousins and other members of this clan in very sensitive positions in Washington. Carl Gershman, who heads half a dozen so-called "right-wing" deceptive groups, is one. Penn Kemble is the leader of several other such delusive groups. Cousin Irwing Kristol is a writer who visited Buenos Aires last year at the invitation of a foundation. His hosts in Argentina were greatly annoyed to learn that he was a Trotskyite in beliefs as well as race.

Of this large Brooklyn Jewish clan, Mr. Abrams has held the most influential position; but the others also accomplished a great deal at the expense of America.

While I am including something about the hate-mongering Mrs. Kirkpatrick, let all readers know that she recently wrote a syndicated column in the Los Angeles Times to condemn the possible reunification of East and West Germany. Here are her words: "The specter of a reunited Germany is again haunting Europe, called up by the visit of East German Communist leader Erich Honecker to Bonn where he was treated with pomp, ceremony and great hospitality by Chancellor Helmut Kohl and the West German government." She continued by saying, "There is a great risk for West Europe and the United States in this new rapprochement." Since she follows exactly the Zionist line, it is difficult to determine which people Mrs. Kirkpatrick hates the more, the Germans or the Arabs. She speaks and writes against both with the venomous hatred of a frenzied zealot.

Both the U.S. government and the American news media constantly proclaim that the Persian Gulf is the only major flash point that could ignite more widespread warfare. However, the U.S. and Israel have silently and skilfully established at least eleven permanent air bases in Honduras and have held fifty-two military exercises there since 1982. The American forces in Honduras are an occupation army, whether we like to admit it or not.

Here is a list of U.S. bases in Honduras:

1. San Pedro Jula
2. Cucuyagua
3. Palmerola
4. Jamastran
5. Aguacate
6. Mokoron
7. Puerto Lempira
8. Trujillo
9. La Ceiba
10. Tegucigalpa
11. San Lorenzo

As you read this, you may wonder why you never saw it or heard of it from the establishment news media. You weren't meant to learn about it, anymore than you were meant to know about the secret spy base built in Oman by the U.S. for Israel to use to spy on the Arab countries of the Gulf, which I exposed last year.<sup>13</sup> The fact that the U.S. has an occupation army in Honduras is not something the Pentagon believes the American public would be happy to know about.

With their occupation of Honduras the Americans brought the corruption and depravity that have excited the indignation of the inhabitants of the occupied country. Their protests have now reached almost epic proportions, though news of these protests has been suppressed in the U.S. newspapers. There have been many mass demonstrations in Tegucigalpa and other places in Honduras against the unwanted American occupation. The United States of America has been accused of using both brute force and bribery in Central America. And the accusations are irrefutable.

To foresee what is going to happen in Honduras, one merely has to visualize what has happened in Grenada since the outrageous and ill-planned American invasion. The U.S. flag in Grenada has become a symbol of unwarranted aggression and of bitter hatred for all things American. The Point Saline international airport, built mostly by a joint British-Cuban team, is now under U.S. sponsorship and considered a model of abject failure, a consequence of the U.S. occupation of the island. More than two years after this airport was opened and four years after the U.S. invasion, it is little utilized and operates at a loss of over one million dollars a year. This is just another waste of your tax dollars. The hundreds of thousands of free-spending tourists promised by the U.S. government never arrived in Grenada. Who, in their right mind, would want to pay a visit to a small island occupied by American troops, who spend their time sharing cocaine and AIDS with the natives?

Also, the promised American business investments and stability are nowhere to be seen. Not one of the scheduled large U.S.-funded resort hotels has been built, according to the native political leader, Kenrick Radix. He claims that all the occupying Americans have done is cancel the progress previously made by Britain and Cuba on the island. The Grenadians ironically remark that the U.S. has not sent money as promptly as it sent bullets and bombs.

Unemployment was 12 percent before the American "liberation." Now, under Occupation by the U.S., it is over 40 percent and growing. Church leaders maintain that the chief American "gifts" to the island have been cocaine, "crack," increased crime, and anti-social conduct. Oh, yes, like many other countries, Grenada had no AIDS Problem before the arrival of the Americans. Now they do.

U.S. officials are present in every government department. And a television station has been installed in the former Cuban Embassy. Do you readers recall President Reagan's bold statement at the time of the invasion, saying to Americans that the occupation forces would be withdrawn in just two weeks? I do! I can also look at the calendar and see that the two weeks have become over four years. Can you guess whom Reagan was kidding?

A Grenadian minister, who doesn't want his name used, said, "We are working to gain the confidence of the people so we can throw off the bitterly-detested American yoke." And so it goes.

In nearby Costa Rica, the government there refused to allow sailors from a ship of the U.S. Navy to come ashore unless the captain certified that they were all free of the dreaded "American disease," as they call AIDS.

A Pentagon spokesman said, "There is a fear and paranoia growing about this disease that could threaten our relationships with many friendly countries around the world." Nationalist China, Hong Kong, and Singapore have already prohibited some Americans from entering their territories. He continued, "This could be much worse than the anti-nuclear problem in Ports. The issue is going to have to be resolved at the highest levels of government, and very quickly, at that. If we don't nip this in the bud, it could prove a very dangerous precedent."

Let me mention the American record in Haiti, where the average citizen had had an annual income of only $180 per year under U.S.-backed dictators. Dictator François "Papa Doc" Duvalier did the bidding of the United States and oversaw the misery from 1957 to 1971. His son, Jean-Claude, ruled till February 1986, when the taxpayers of the U.S. used a U.S. Air Force jet to fly him and his entourage to a high-priced French spa. Personally, I was in favor of letting the people of Haiti take care of the problem. But the U.S. saved their man anyway and set him up for an easy life in France. By countless unlawful "hassles," such as imposing high taxes on American food sent as aid and profiting from selling people into slavery, the Duvaliers amassed a fortune of over $900 million dollars, with the approval and cooperation of the government of the United States and the American people. And this was done by the U.S. in an exhausted tropical land where three dollars for working twelve hours a day in a sweatshop was considered a high and desired wage.

Then, with Haiti in disarray and under a provisional junta led by a general who served the Duvaliers loyally, the Americans tried to justify the terrorist attacks and killings which took place after the escape of the Duvalier family. An American spokesman had the audacity to say, "We want to minimize the current chaos and maximize the hope for the future." Now that is in State Department language. I am going to translate what that means in plain English that every reader can understand. It simply means that the U.S. is not about to change anything and is looking for another dictator to replace the dear retired Duvaliers.

Let me give you another example of waste and corruption that you may recall. In Haiti, Madame Duvalier, Jean-Claude's wife, brought a large number of full-length mink coats to the island country for the use of herself and friends. Since it is very hot all year around in Haiti, it would be absolutely impossible to use a mink coat, or any other type of heavy coat. So she had constructed a building with industrial-type air-conditioning to provide rooms with a cooled-down temperature of about 50 degrees. She and her friends could sit around and smoke and drink cocktails in cool comfort while wearing their expensive mink coats. In view of all this, is it remarkable that the people of Haiti have no respect for America?

When does an un-Constitutional and unlawful act suddenly become permissible for the American government and endorsed by the American people? The only logical answer, of course, is, When Israel wants it that way.

Senator Charles Grassley (R-Iowa) and Representative Jack Kemp (R-N.Y.), two Israeli hired hands in Congress, recently got the State Department to close the Washington office of the Palestinian people. These miserably-treated people, hounded on all sides by efforts of the United States and Israel to dispose of them by any means, have been cheated out of their rightful homeland and now they cannot even be permitted to have an office to present their side of the Mideast conflict. Israel, deathly afraid of permitting the truth to emerge in authentic news about criminal acts continuously and constantly being committed by Israel against the Palestinians, ordered the office closed.

Spokesman Charles Redman, well-known for his hatred of Arabs, declared the Palestinian Information Office in Washington D.C. a "foreign mission," in a tricky ploy to give the State Department jurisdiction under vague U.S. laws, which have been twisted around illegally to cover up this major crime against mankind. The Arab Delegation at the United Nations will probably also be shut down.

Even Mr. Redman, biased as he is against the Arab world, admitted to the press that there was no evidence at all that the office in question was ever engaged in terrorism. Then why close it? Because Israel wanted it done.

Mr. M. T. Mehdi, president of the American-Arab Relations Committee, said to Secretary of State George Shultz, "You are destroying and denying the American people their Constitutional right to hear the Palestinian viewpoint." How right he is! But, as has been proven a thousand times in the U.S., there is no such thing as freedom of speech any more. And there never has been any such freedom where Israel was concerned.

So the Zionists win again. They always do, don't they? And America loses another freedom. If freedom to speak by Palestinians and Americans working with them can be made suddenly "illegal," how long will it be before the right to free expression of the viewpoints of the rest of us will be declared illegal too? Think about that for a minute. You may not like the Palestinians. Most Americans have been carefully programmed to hate these unfortunate people. But beware, and remember that if one group's right to free speech can be automatically obliterated at the whim of Israel, then all rights of everyone else in the United States of America are in jeopardy. Who will be purged next? It could be YOU.

Here is an editorial in the Arizona Republic of Phoenix:

"In Arab capitals, the closing of the Palestine Liberation Organization's information office in Washington will be viewed as further evidence of the excessive influence of the pro-Israel lobby in American politics, and who can argue otherwise?"

"The American Israel Public Affairs Committee long had urged their Congressional stooges to take action in shutting down the PLO's Washington office. The State Department has obliged....."

About a year and a half ago in my column, I exposed for the first time the fact that a team of U.S. Navy SEALs with Israeli advisers had raided the Libyan coast. I had gotten this information from two sources: the Libyan government and two American naval officers, who disapproved of this highly illegal and immoral operation against a tiny nation which had never harmed the U.S. in any way.

However, as is usual in such cases, when my story on this matter as printed in 1986, no one believed me. They claimed that the U.S. Navy would not engage in such acts of terrorism. Naturally, I could not and will never under any circumstances divulge the names of the officers who gave me that information. My story was flatly denied by the Navy and the State Department. In other words, I was termed a liar.

But lo and behold! last September the Associated Press carried a story almost identical to mine, which they had checked out and believed to be correct. Now everyone realizes that my story was correct in the first place. It seems that usually the American reading public does not really believe what I write—until the AP or The New York Times verifies it. That's all right with me. I shall continue to give readers information they won't read elsewhere until years later, as happened with the American-Israeli arms-to-Iran scandal. I printed that fact six years before the establishment news media of this country admitted they had heard about it.

To repeat in brief my original story, the "seals" clandestine demolition and intelligence missions in Libya took place from May to October in 1986. The AP stated that these limited raids were designed largely to confuse the Libyans and to make them nervous enough to overthrow their own government. This exhibits how little Washington knows about the Libyan people.

The U.S. team left both Syrian and Israeli brands of cigarette butts at the scene of their terrorist raids against the innocent people of Libya. Waterlogged Soviet-made sticks of dynamite were left at some target sites to make the Libyans believe that these punitive raids were not carried out by the U.S.

Vice Admiral John Poindexter told Congressional investigators that his staff, with White House permission, directed raids on Libya in coastal areas, near the cities of Tripoli and Benghazi. Supposedly the National Security Council, the CIA, and even the U.S. Sixth Fleet did not know of these highly-secret landings.<sup>14</sup> Now everyone knows. And now everyone knows that my original story was correct.

For such a disreputable mission, the SEALs were the correct choice, judging from their reputation as trouble-makers. Many of them have been in difficulty with both the Navy and the Law. John Mason of Phoenix, once a specialist with the SEALs Team 6, pleaded guilty to filing false travel claims of nearly $13,000.

President Ronald Reagan achieved a seven-year dream last fall when he authorized the FBI, supposedly a domestic law enforcement agency, to engage in what he termed a "Sea Sting" operation in the Mediterranean. The prize in that nefarious and quite illegal scheme was a captured Arab of Lebanese citizenship named Fawaz Younis. The U.S. claims that Mr. Younis was one of the hijackers who took over a Jordanian airliner in Beirut in 1985. Of course the U.S. has no proof of this man's guilt, except a "tip" from the very unreliable Israeli sources. The Lebanese government maintains that he was not one of the hijackers.

Whether this man was one of the hijackers or not is not the most important question in the minds of Mr. Reagan and the FBI. Ever since his election in 1980, Mr. Reagan has been bragging to his Israeli friends that sooner or later he was going to kidnap some Arab "terrorist" so as to gain publicity from a big show trial of the Nuremberg type. Another reason for trying some Arab in America is to boost the stock of Israel with the American people in general, who are getting a little fed up with the power of the Zionists in this country. As Mr. Reagan stated to his staff, "it will promote the idea that all Arabs are killers and cannot be trusted."

14. It is not publicly known just who really commands the appropriately named "seals," a highly secret organization of bands of well-trained terrorists, whose principal function is to land from underwater craft stealthily under the cover of night and to commit acts of sabotage, murder, and other forms of terrorism before departing as furtively as they came. They use methods elaborated from the techniques devised by the British for the use of the desperate criminals in France who were hired to form the effective part of the much-touted "Resistance" to the German occupation and to the legitimate government of France in Vichy. The criminals, by the way, were more intelligent than Englishmen and Americans: they insisted on being paid in gold, which the British government cast in small slabs, called "tablets," which could conveniently be carried in belts around the waist of the couriers who delivered pay to the thugs who were called "French patriots" in the newspaper and eulogized for their noble idealism.

It matters not that there is no evidence against Mr. Younis: he was already "convicted" before any trial was scheduled. The highly-touted American practice of assuming that an accused person is innocent until proven guilty is automatically waived where Arabs are concerned. No Arab could ever get a fair trial in America. There is too much prejudice against Arabs here, thanks to Israeli propagandist myths.

The U.S. claims that Mr. Younis was captured in international waters. This is untrue. Arab diplomats in Rome and the European press have verified an Italian military report that he was kidnapped in Italy and taken on a speedboat to a yacht chartered by the American FBI.

After this unlawful kidnapping, Mr. Younis was taken to a U.S. aircraft carrier, then flown directly to Washington, where he was charged with conspiracy, hostage-taking and destruction of an aircraft.

The European newspapers put quotation marks around the word "voluntarily" to indicate disbelief when they reported the preposterous claim by the U.S. that the Lebanese went aboard the yacht of his own free will. Can you imagine any Arab doing such a thing? Or anyone not an idiot?

To disguise their chartered yacht in the Mediterranean, FBI agents posed as members of the crew. Female agents, selected for their appearance, were attired in shorts to give the yacht a "natural" look so that it could pass as a pleasure craft on a cruise at sea, according to the FBI.

The Lebanese government, as well as many other governments around the world, have protested vigorously this piratical kidnapping on the high seas. The Minister of Justice in Lebanon condemned the arrest of Mr. Younis "as an act of piracy and an infringement on Lebanon's integrity." Of course, these protests fell on deaf ears at both the State Department and the White House. After all, what could the U.S. and Israel care about protests from Lebanon, a country they have systematically tried to wipe off the face of the earth? What could they care about the norms of civilized diplomacy and international relations, which they have openly flouted for decades?

Italian news reports say that Israeli agents helped the FBI capture Mr. Younis before he was put on the speedboat and taken to the yacht. It is, of course, inconceivable that he would have boarded such a yacht voluntarily. The absurdity of the official story shows the contempt for the American people that the Jews' employees in Washington no longer conceal.

Mr. Reagan, an Arab hater deluxe, has always dealt hostilely with Arab nations. Of course the Israelis, whom Mr. Reagan worships, started him in this type of relationship and he tries to denigrate all things Arab every chance he gets. This "Sea Sting" of his resulted in the long-sought culmination of his years of efforts to please the world Zionists by doing something very spectacular and newsworthy to assist them. He failed to get Libya's Colonel Qaddafi and President Saddam Hussein of Iraq assassinated, as he promised the Israelis he would do; but he did manage to use the FBI to kidnap a poor Lebanese citizen for a big show trial in American—just like the fake trials at Nuremberg after World War II. It is the same thing and the part of the same undeclared war of which World War II was but a phase. And the Zionists, with Mr. Reagan as their front-man, are still fighting that war against us. □

CHURCHILL'S WAR

Volume 1 — The Struggle for Power

By David Irving

Winston Churchill was a man who destroyed two empires, one of them the enemy's. This is the conclusion reached by David Irving in Churchill's War.

"When I was born in 1938," observes the author, "the British Empire was at its most magnificent extent. By the end of the 1939/45 war, it was becoming extinct."

Irving who took ten years to complete Hitler's War, now a recommended work at military staff colleges and in universities including the Open University, spent more than ten years from 1976 to 1986 preparing this complimentary biography of Churchill. Working exclusively from primary records in many languages including unpublished Polish, Czech, Israeli, as well as scholarly research in British and foreign archives like Washington, Paris, and Moscow. Irving has built up, brick by brick, a monumental account of Britain's wartime leader.

At first Irving intended to research Churchill's life from 1936 to the end; but sheer size of the story forced him to narrow his focus, and devote two volumes to Churchill's War. The first, The Struggle for Power, begins with Churchill in disgrace and battling to survive in a hostile political environment. The second, The Triumph and Decline, begins with Pearl Harbour (1941) and ends with Potsdam and his Party's surprising electoral defeat. Irving has created an unusual portrait of a man who fought the toughest war in human history, leading his own country and people to what has proved to be a Pyrrhic victory: an imperial nation without an Empire, and, perhaps opening up a political vacuum which has since been filled by the Soviet Union.

Unstinting in his praise of the achievement of an elder statesman in uniting and inspiring a moribund Mother Country to make one last great effort, Irving turned up from the archives tarnished details concealed, disbelieved, or ignored by his predecessors: how Churchill thwarted the only chances that Europe had of peace in 1939 and 1940; how he willingly unleashed a cruel bombing war that killed one million Europeans. The author has re-examined several controversial issues, including Britain's rôle in political assassinations and the deaths of leading figures like Admiral Darlan. We watch him take and retain absolite control of Britain's brilliant intelligence and codebreaking organisations, which reassured him—alone—that Hitler never intended to invade the United Kingdom or bomb London. Chapters reveal how Britain lost world supremacy in atomic power and civil aviation.

On Churchill's strained relations with his son and daughters there are touching sidelights cast by their unpublished papers; but a harsher light is thrown on the hard drinking, cynicism, brutality, deceit and callousness of Winston's Cabinet as shown by unpublished portions of their diaries. (Eden, Cunningham, Alanbrooke, Cadogan, Martin, and others). These reveal their prime minister rejoicing in slaying, being intoxicated by the "roar of cannon" and exhilarated by his own graphic oratory.

David Irving has written a stout picture of a tough old warrior, aged sixty as the book begins—emerging from a political wilderness to fight a war with a determined energy that appalled men even half his age.

"Some chicken, some neck!" was his famous epigram at Ottawa at the end of 1941. But as the war gained momentum, did he realise that the outcome would be the end of Britain as a world power, and the emergence of a super Soviet power house that was to replace it? □

WHICH WAY, WESTERN MAN?

SURVIVAL MANUAL FOR THE WHITE RACE

William Gailey Simpson has spent a lifetime of keen observation, careful analysis, and deep reflection developing the principal thesis of his book: that the single, undying purpose of all human activity should be the ennobling of man. In support of this thesis he looks at the foundations of Western Society, at the structure of our government, at the effect of technology and industrialization on man, at the roles of the sexes, at economics, and at race. The book goes to the roots of the problems facing the White Race today, and it shows the ways in which White society must be changed if the race is to survive. Which Way Western Man? is an encyclopedic work whose conclusions can be ignored by no one with a sense of responsibility to the future. ## LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Landsmann:

I think I have just about every book on your list. All have been passed on to others. Now I would like to order a few extra copies of those I like best or find most informative...

Of all the books you sell, I think this one [Jewish Ritual Murder] makes the greatest emotional impact and reveals most about the Jewish mind. LaRouche mentioned in his paper New Solidarity (since suppressed) that 10% of all children born each year vanish. Something that was unknown as late as the mid 60s, when all lost children were found, alive or dead, within two weeks. Part of this is social disintegration, but I shudder when I realize how much of it must be due to this cause. Send me two copies of this book. I always give away my copies.

I enclosed a check for the books, and also enclose another $20 for you as thanks for the good work you are doing and the way you have helped me comprehend what is going on.

The business part of the letter over, I have a few bits of information for you that are the results of my own thinking. First, on the Jewish Ritual Murder I have something that even Mr. Leese didn't mention. In the first books of the Bible there occurs the famous story of Abraham being ordered to sacrifice his son Isaac and offer him up as "burnt offering unto the Lord." At the last moment an angel stays his hand with the knife and he is provided with "an animal" to sacrifice in place of his son. You start to comprehend this incident, which serves as the precedent for the whole of the Jewish temple cult, when you realize that, under Jewish law, we are animals! In plain English, this part of the Pentateuch established the precedent that humans may be offered as sacrifices to the Jews' God/Devil in place of Jews. Every religion that practices sacrifice considers the sacrifice of a human being more important than that of an animal. With this in mind, you can understand why, in Roman times, non-Jews were forbidden, on pain of death, to enter the inner court of the temple where sacrifice was done! The horrible part of this is that, in addition to their child murders in exile, the Jews have a nut faction that wants to re-establish the temple cult on the spot where the Al Aska Mosque is now, complete with the sacrifices to God! Only Jews have elevated butchers to priests! The temple may well be restored after the next Mideast war, which is imminent. Doubtless you know that, according to the Armageddon believers, 1 1/2 years after that temple is reopened (to the anti-Christ!) the final battle is to take place. And it may well.

This leads to the second topic. I have written to you before about the Mideast war which has been imminent since 1984. The main delay was in obtaining Russia's permission, which is necessary. Russia held out for more and more. It was to settle this problem that I think the summit was really held. During it, Gorbachev met with the top Jews: Rockefeller, Rohatyn, Hammer, et al, at the Soviet Embassy in Washington. The Jews came out all smiles praising Gorbachev to the skies. Apparently they got what they were after. Gorbachev asked for $14 billion in loans, they revealed. The Jews agreed but only on the condition that the Ruble was made convertible and Russia joined the Jewish international banking system. Gorbachev commented it was a "little early" to make the Ruble convertible. To my mind, this means that he is waiting till the dollar standard collapses, which shouldn't be long now, what with America's bankruptcy and the world debt repudiation now well under way. Also, such a convertibility of the Ruble could only be on the gold standard—which the Jews plan to reinstitute after their inflation swindle collapses.

Over in the Persian Gulf the Iranians have tested out their silkworm batteries at the Omani mouth of the Gulf (up till now, only the Kuwaiti batteries were operational) and sank one 83,000 tanker and gutted one of 103,000 tons. This means they are now ready to close the Gulf. The Iranians have boasted that they will not wait for the US to make the first move but will make a preemptive strike on the U.S. Navy. The Navy has sent one of their prized Ageis cruisers into the gulf to handle the attack. I doubt it will work. After the Stark affair, simulated attacks were made on all operational ships to see if they could repel the attack. They all failed. And that was a punky Exocet. Silkworms blow a crater in a ship 100 feet across. And move at super-sonic speeds. The moment Iran attacks, the Gulf will be closed and Oil Hoax III will be on. Note that the price of oil fell from $18 to $15 right after the summit. This was the Jews doing a short squeeze just before the war.

I think that Israel has given (sold) Iran one or more neutron bombs and that Iran will use them to break through at Basra. The Lake Nyos horror in August 1986 was Israel testing one of those bombs. I note that this fall's weather has been altered to produce rain and clouds over southern Iraq (the converse of the snow in LA and El Paso just now). As at Lake Nyos, an attempt will probably be made to hide the bomb by exploding it in water and under an overcast to muffle flash and shock wave. The Iranian attack will probably come over the Christmas/New Year holiday or possibly in January. It should break through and overrun Iraq and Kuwait and bring the U.S. into the war. The oil hoax will probably come soon after. The financial crash now in progress requires something for the Jews to blame it on and the war will be it.

I would also like to comment on the German Antarctic explorations and the UFOs. Independently I came across other data that reveals that Newton's famous gravitational formulae are totally wrong due to a lapse in comprehension by Newton and due to an error in operations with exponents. I could give the exact derivation but this is not a math lessons. Suffice to say that the real mass of the earth and planets and sun is far less than the official figures. The earth's mass is 1/4 the figure given. The sun's mass is the square root of the published figures! As an error, this is a howler. Of interest to us here is that these figures led to the revelation that the earth is hollow! I know this sounds fantastic for it did to me too. But this is not theory or a wild idea. The hollowness was proven by experiments in France and the U.S.A. in 1909 and 1913 and by ultrasound experiments at the University of Tempe, Arizona.

It was access to the inner world that Hitler was searching for during his expeditions. And he found it too. There are 300 km diameter holes at both poles of the earth. The northern one is all water, the southern one is part land. Think about the implications of this. They grow on one.

Finally, I hope you have noticed the latest wrinkle of AIDS. It seems the disease attacks the minds of its victims in 15% of cases before there are any other symptoms. This probably means it hits the minds of Jews especially severely. Due to this observed impairment, the Army is removing AIDS carriers from sensitive positions. Nearly all of advanced AIDS cases show brain damage. AIDS is doing wonders around here. As many as five prominent Jews die of AIDS each day and are in the obituaries.

Merry Christmas!

Dear Mr. Dietz,

Enclosed is a copy of a letter I got from my friend Mr. Hild. I was wondering if you could use it for one of your Liberty Bell issues. It seems awful good to me and if it could be published in Liberty Bell many people would get to know some important facts.

Attention: Mr. Peter Rogoff

Dear Mr. Rogoff,

One of the most daunting of all the difficult challenges facing the public TV executive is the presentation of a slate of news and views free as possible from favoritism for any one group. In the best of circumstances, ethnic sensitivities over whose favorite ox is being gored are likely to run high. But in the ethnically charged atmosphere of our present-day polyglot culture, such sensitivities multiply a thousand-fold.

Critics of public TV's performance thus have a special responsibility to check their facts about allegations of favoritism, separating out insignificant random incidents from more systematized forms of group bias.

Inevitably, however, the time comes when clear recognition of an enduring bias must be spotlighted. For a hundred acquaintances of this writer, this time is now. Over the last decade, public TV has been proselytizing on behalf of recurring themes favorable to the interests of two groups alone—blacks and Jews. Aid to Israel, support for Jewish refusenicks, backing of black revolutionaries in South Africa, promotion of racial integration, affirmative action, and social welfarism—these all have become the unstated leitmotif of public TV's programming. Social notions to the contrary are ignored. And the cost of these initiatives are rarely tallied.

Through careful selection of news and, above all, the presentation of expensively crafted docu-dramas purporting to depict historical fact, the public TV network packages its intellectual soap for nationwide distribution.

Public TV's annual rite of spring, Holocaust Month, is the occasion for an absurd docu-drama depiction of Judaism's past as morally worthless, an imagery which almost topples of its own preposterous weight. The same people who flocked to the banner of Lenin, sowing the seeds of world revolution after World War I, and who dominated the middle and upper echelons of Soviet officialdom (including, to be sure, its hated state security apparatus which murdered tens of millions) are lionized at taxpayers' expense while Christian European history is slandered. The real cause of Eastern European anti-semitism is buried in a mountain of charges about medievalism.

Why all these Aprils-in-Hitlerland? An ever-lengthening chain of Jewish "Middle East experts", obviously in the emotional pay of Israel, makes that perfectly clear on public TV month in and month out. Solemnly intoning Israel's status as America's "only true friend", these partisans of Zionism inadvertently clarify the meaning of that old canard about needing friends like these.

The cost of our "Israelism"? A mammoth decline in America's influence throughout the Arab states, the entire Third World, Western Europe and Japan—a foreign policy disaster systematically masked from public awareness.

Much the same about the flypaper of Jewish refusenickism, a subject almost as dear to public TV as the Holocaust itself. Though it's never shown, the Jackson-Vanik amendment has given Russia dangerous leverage over American foreign policy at the expense of only a few thousand Jewish emigres—the same people, ironically, whose parents did so much to establish Communism in the first place.

And what of the refusenicks in America? A surprising proportion turn to America's underworld for their daily bread, though, for public TV, they're only concert musicians who had pined away in drafty Moscow apartments for the freedom only Carnegie Hall could provide.

Public TV's taboo against ethnic accountability obviously extends to blacks. Few are the scripted hours devoted to who is mugging, stabbing, shooting, raping, and robbing whom in this chaotic post-segregationist America. Blacks only as the victims of crime is a characterization that nicely bears out the old adage about liars and statistics.

The network portrayal of black sub-Saharan Africa is equally skewed. Alternatively shown as victim of old-style colonialism (which apparently didn't do enough) or neo-colonialism (which must have done too much), black Africa's immunity to culpability over the grizzly reality of its own amazing collapse into blood-thirsty chaos almost belows propaganda, reaching an amazing crescendo in Winnie Mandela Month, a time for the ritualist renewal of white South African condemnation. (Loyal viewers, however, must be confused by all the whispered reports emanating from the Middle East depicting Israel as South Africa's commercial middleman. Well, at least we've got those dirty Arabs, right?)

Ethno-racial stereotyping favorable to blacks (and Jews) propagandistically seeks to obliterate any positive notion majority America retains of its pre-integrationist past, for public TV apparently an unrelieved panorama of Bull Connor chain-gang majorityism, though for almost everyone else an epoch of vast social accomplishment.

An unbiased evaluation of racial integration would include the shattered inner cities, the Jerry-built suburbs, the slashed economic productivity, reduced employment, and throttled social growth which it has caused. It would further include an ironic decline in black social functionality, notwithstanding all those claims of early 1950's integrationist-welfarists demanding America "break the cycle of poverty" once and for all. Poverty ipso facto never was the issue with social disfunctionality. Witness the incredibly low FBI crime statistics for all those white poverty-stricken areas of coal mining Pennsylvania. It's cultural. And culture is a thousand-year thing.

Public TV's ethnic bias, pervasive throughout America's "liberal" media (a misnomer) as shown by a recent George Washington University study—has come about because Jews and blacks dominate policy staffing. In a publicly-funded institution, this is unconscionable. New York City is not America; things must change.

Jane Addams, speaking in 1916, said of another vehicle of propaganda that "You can cause history to demonstrate anything when you take certain facts and emphasize them to the exclusion of all others". Though her words were, ironically, spoken about D.W. Griffith's "The Birth of a Nation", they are eminently appropriate to this subject.

Dear George:

Hofstra University has been chosen to be the kick-off site for the One World proponents' next enslavement endeavor. They see the need for a new law to cover all contingencies and to ensure the hold they already have on us. It will be an invitation to Law Students to participate in the formulation of the new statute, with a $1500 bait attached, dangling on a hook like this:

Sir,
With dismay I watched the TV programme "Network" during which Chief Minister Buthelezi "explained" his dilemma in trying to satisfy the young Zulu bloods, in order to prevent bloodshed in South Africa. He was in reality using these young blacks as a lever to bring about further "change" in our country.

I came to the conclusion that blacks actually think that Whites are afraid of them. Has Chief Buthelezi ever considered what would happen should Whites lose patience, or do they think that the Whites will continue to accept all their demands? In case the Chief Minister of Kwa Zulu should be as stupid as that, I would recommend that he consult his relative who was one of the audience at the time when Professor Floors van Jaarsveld was tarred-and-feathered. I can still remember how that Buthelezi was scared to death!

In any case, people like Buthelezi have in fact no say over our affairs. They should be reminded that tarring-and-feathering—and even a Blood River—would be child's play compared to the White backlash (as well as that of many independent Black states reluctant to lose their freedom as independent states) if black leaders like Buthelezi continue to meddle in our White nation's affairs. This lever would be greatly superior to the weak excuse Buthelezi is using. They should not deceive themselves that all Whites are ready for an old-age home—like our State President and members of his Party!

Yours faithfully,
J.J.V., South Africa

Dear Sir,

I commend your great work in the cause of championing our White heritage and culture.

Feeling uneducated as yet in the subtleties and deviousness of our enemies and also unfamiliar with the literature extolling the virtues and accomplishments of the White people, I am writing to request a copy of your "eye-opening" list of books.

It is truly unfortunate that our minds are polluted and poisoned every day with the untruths of the liberal media who make a mockery of White victories. Trying to keep informed these days results in the bizarre paradox of becoming more confused and a victim of distortion than those who remain blissfully ignorant of the race-destroying news coverage.

It is my sincere desire to inform myself with materials from a different perspective which is one, I believe, that possesses more sincerity, loyalty to race and truth than the warped publications of the liberal establishment. I have a vast hunger for knowledge for the truth concerning matters which threaten the very existence of Western culture, and I believe I may only be treated to a vision of this truth through your organization.

I have had a brief glimpse of what you offer through your on-line Bulletin Board Service. What I have read there has inspired me greatly. It is though the clouds have passed from my fogged mind and I can see clearly the true state of things.

I, therefore, enclose a check for six dollars to cover your book list and a password for your electronic bulletin board. Thank you very much.

Sincerely yours,
M.B., Pittsburgh

Dear Landsmann:

I sent $20 to Zündel to aid in his anti-German defamation fight and against that dirty Hoaxocaust lie. I was just thinking that you deserve equal billing, so to speak. You have certainly done good work so I enclosed $20 for you too. I would also like to order 2 copies of Gruesome Harvest. It is amazing how many Germans I run into who don't know this data, what with the filthy Holycaust lie taking up all the air time.

I read The March Up Country with great interest. I have a few thoughts on it which might be of interest. My opinion is that nothing serious is going to be done about the Jew tyranny which oppresses us until Americans lose their comfortable life. To be sure, millions of White Americans suffer yearly from Jew and nigger oppression and government persecution. But many, many more enjoy comfort and wealth by betraying their nation and race. Until they are reduced to paupers along with the rest of the American people, nothing is going to be done.

In ancient times it was a common opinion of historians that peoples were enervated and weakened by luxury. America is the richest nation that ever existed and it has become one of the most degenerate. This tends to support the ancient opinion. A good dose of poverty and need concentrates the mind wonderfully. Certainly, the nonsense that Liberals pretend to believe would never be possible if people were not insulated from reality as they are. The idea of welfare for everyone and "foreign aid" are products of too much wealth.

Mr. Covington commented that Conservatives are interested in saving their money, not their race. This is absolutely correct. But I would like to ask why people should work and sacrifice for their race when the need is not perceived as desperate or not perceived at all?

America's wealth and power have not only been wasted, they have been used for evil almost incomprehensible to the human mind. A partial list of atrocities inflicted by America on the human race are the installation of Communism upon the Russian people, and others. Many others. The U.S. is the main support of Communism world-wide. It is also the main support of the U.N. and I.M.F. and the International

Banks. It is the chief enforcer of Jewry world-wide. It is American wealth that makes possible the Jewish world rule with all its abominations. American aid is the main support of Reds throughout the world. It is the main thing supporting the niggers of Africa. It is the only thing supporting Israel and the Jewish invasion of Palestine. In short, America is the chief force of evil in the world today. Conservatives may bemoan the rapidly approaching collapse of the U.S. due to Jew looting, but National Socialists should view the Jews' work with melancholy satisfaction.

The tragedy of Hitler was that he ruled one weak nation. To win against the Jew tyranny, the next great White leader must rule the bulk of the White Race. The combine of Russia plus Europe fulfills this condition. Thus the impending collapse of the U.S.-NATO domination of Europe is a positive sign for our race, as it will allow the bulk of the White Race to be assembled under one rule. As Yockey pointed out in Imperium, the combine of Russia and the rest of Europe is unbeatable, especially with the way America is collapsing. It is hard for Nationalists to view the demise of our nation, but we must never forget the bitter truth: it is no longer our nation. America belongs to the Jew and, as such, is the chief force for evil in the world. The U.S. government, which is no longer our government but the property of the Jews who own it, is moving as rapidly as is possible to exterminate the White population and turn America into a multi-racial cesspool. The collapse of America is not a tragedy, for it means the collapse of the power being used to drive us to racial suicide. Indeed, the tragedy is not that America still exists, partially intact; but that it wasn't destroyed before this. The day of the "conservative" is over for there is little left to conserve except our oppressors. America is a soulless, rotted shell. The sooner it collapses, the better. If our race survives, America can be restored. If not, what does it matter what refuse inhabits the geographical boundaries of what was once our nation? I would rather see America a radioactive wasteland than see it the habitat of what the Jews are replacing us with.

Yours truly,
R.S., New York State

Dear Sir:

On your book list, I noticed a Primer on Social Credit.

Here in B.C., we have had a Social Credit government almost continuously now for thirty years. Whatever their obscure or intended economic policies, their track record speaks for itself.

In their tenure, our province has become overrun by invited Third World "refugees." The Sacred government has even offered free citizenship to any foreigner who invests a quarter of a million dollars here. The Bank of British Columbia is now owned by Hong Kong interests, and our timber and coal literally given away to subsidize Japanese investment in B.C.

Recently, a local sleazy Jew businessman was praised non-stop by a top Sacred politician, and the government has hired Jew businessmen as advisors. The consequences of which I will not get into. The Sacreds have even enacted the "Civil Rights Protection Act" to "protect" minorities. And much more.

Like all Modern-day Western Capitalist and Socialist societies, Sacred economics is basically self-serving.

Dear Mr. Dietz,

Ach Du lieber, the snow is falling and I've been going through some old papers. Lo and behold, I came across your terrific pamphlet "Who Rules America." All about the Jew bastards' control of the media, etc. I am sending a check for a supply of them. I'm going to mail them to American Legion, K. of C., Ukrainian, Polish and select groups of ministers. Some of the damn fools are preaching "Oh the Jews are God's Chosen People." Maybe I can wake some of the stupid jerks up in 1988.

Hope you're well and safe in your mountain stronghold. If I make it till January 25th, I'll be 77 and still fighting.

Bleib gesund. The Best as always,
R.H., New York State

Dear Mr. Dietz,

I'm enclosing $15. to cover my monthly pledge plus one copy of The Nameless War by Capt. A.H.M. Ramsay.

I received The March Up Country and it is excellent. Mr Covington has brought my spirits up.

Sincerely,
Mrs. J.G., Virginia

Dear George:

Enclosed is $35. for a first-class renewal to Liberty Bell.

Your magazine reflects the very best thinking that this country can produce.

Unfortunately, trying to persuade Americans to read this or any other populist literature or even to think for themselves is such an overwhelmingly frustrating task that I wonder if there is any hope at all.

On a daily basis I come in contact with people from all corners of the world. I frequently quiz them on their knowledge of "who runs America," etc.

Almost to a man they acknowledge "the Jews, of course," while not one American in one hundred (at least) knows, cares, or wants to hear about it.

When I think of the money for literature and the time I have spent just trying to get them (us) to think I want to just quit and emigrate—but there is nowhere else to go. When America finally falls, the rest of the world will follow in rapid succession.

I will be sending you more money for more subs and for books and support, but for now just the one sub is all I can muster. (Keep the extra $5 for stamps!)

Courage!

PS: I hear very good things about Costa Rica—should all else fail.
M.B.

Dear George:

Check for LB renewal and donation enclosed.

Keep up the good work! Mr. Taylor and Dr. Oliver are super!

Dear George,

One by one several of the Democratic hopefuls have been knocked out of the race for the Presidency. Now comes word that Jessie Jackson, that voodoo Vercingetorix of the vindictive, may himself have to drop out. A cub reporter on the staff of The Daily Maumau Express has dug up some information on J.J.'s family background that may do ol' Jess in. It seems that Jessie's great-great-grandmother posed in the nude for National Geographic Magazine.

Dear Mr. Dietz:

I wonder how many people buy books from you, but don't subscribe to Liberty Bell? Not subscribing to Liberty Bell is a dreadful mistake for any patriotic American.

Liberty Bell is by far the BEST publication of its kind. It is truly a beacon of truth in a sea of lies. Every patriotic American owes it to himself and to his children's children to support this great work.

Many Christians give 10% of their income to their unpatriotic churches. If only a thousand patriots would donate just 5% of their income to George.... Or even 2% .....

But subscriptions and monthly contributions are not enough. We, the readers, must also distribute leaflets, millions of them! "The Problem of the Gas Chambers" comes to mind. We MUST urge others to subscribe to Liberty Bell. Just imagine how Liberty Bell would grow if each subscriber got someone else signed up every six months!

And Lincoln Rockwell on cassette will put any new person into the orbit of truth and knowledge. He, unlike Martin Lucifer King, was a truly GREAT speaker!!

So you people out there, unplug your Electronic Jew, get off your asses, and support George and his (our) work!

If our race is to survive, it will only because of people like George Dietz!

Sincerely,
S.P., South Carolina

Liberty Bell!

Greetings from a "front fighter" here in Germany for the New Year. From observing the battle here in Europe, I believe that '88' will be a turning point in favor of the forces of truth and justice in our struggle against tyranny and degeneracy. All one has to do is observe the success of the National Front in England, the success of Le Pen's movement in France, and the courageous battle put up by the N.P.D. [Nationaldemokratische Partei Deutschlands] in Central Germany against all odds to know that 1988 is our year!

PS: Bravo, Denis [Doyle], from one fighting Irishman to another!

Der Sieg ist doch unser!

Greetings:

Enclosed is my check for $50. Will you please extend my subscription to the "Bell" for another year. You can surely find a use for the balance.

Was lucky to catch Jim Taylor on radio a couple of weeks ago from KEX Portland. A couple of Jews followed with their view the other night; the host says he might get Jim back so the three of them can have at it. I'd like to tape that.

All the best wishes for the staff and writers. Picking up a copy of the "Bell" is like setting down with your best friends.

Very respectfully,
D.R., California

Dear Mr. Dietz:

Enclosed is photocopy of the JDL move against Romanian Iron Guard members in Canada.

Apparently this is part of the drive against East Europeans in Canada.

I have Suicide of Europe by Prince Michael Sturdza...

The Jews' venom is bottomless! I'm supporting Ernst Zündel—a real fighter. I'm more aware of the German picture than the East European, but since JDL Canada has seen fit to persecute the East Europeans of Canada I would like to know more.

Appreciate Liberty Bell and all you are doing.

Received my copy of The March up Country and wrote Covington how good it was.

For Victory. Thank you sincerely,
Mrs. McC.

Dear Liberty Bell:

Thank you for your prompt sending of current price list and details on The March Up Country. I have read the book and believe it to be the finest guidebook for survivalists that has ever been printed.

I enclose $50 for which I wish you to send me 10 copies...

Thank you for providing a great service and the prompt service in the past.

Sincerely,

Dear George:

I hope all is well with you. I think of you often and I would be honored to meet you someday. Enclosed is $100 you may use as you see fit. One gets as much justice as one can purchase. There is no order where there is law!

The Federal courts broke me, imprisoned me, and in the end I lost my wife too. We must have victory! I myself will not be satisfied until the last drop of Jewish blood has been spilled. What a pleasant thought! I long for it to happen in my lifetime.

I met a man named H.S. from Idaho, in prison. He gave me my first copy of Liberty Bell and took away my Christian beliefs. What a man he is! If H. is on your mailing list, I would greatly like to make contact with him.

I pass on Liberty Bell and other books and material, but my family and friends are afraid to be on your mailing list. These are the best men I personally know, and they are frightened.

As for myself, the enemy has long known me and has good reason to fear me. I await the day I can fill their hearts with true terror.

Best wishes to you and your family, George. I will contribute more in the future.

Dear George:

For years the Establishment Liberals, the Jew-controlled media, the bubbleheads at the N.E.A. and the American Historical Association, ad nauseam, have pooh-pooed revisionists and others who are "Jew-wise" about F.D.R.'s Jewish lineage.

Well I discovered in my mother's church bulletin this insertion on family trees of past Presidents and there it is, "Van Rosenvelt", which the Kosher Kristians claim is Dutch, but we know better. The significant part is that at least they now admit the name was something other than Roosevelt. A minor victory but one nonetheless.

Keep up the good work; the truth will win out in the end.

Victory for Ernst Zündel in 88!

Sincerely,

M.R., Oregon

Dear George:

It has been a long time—no I haven't forgotten about you, I've just been sending my extra $$ up to Zündel, I'm taking his court case seriously and I hope everyone else is also.

Enclosed is an order for a few things and a small donation. Things are looking up for the future, hopefully. I'll be able to help out a little more often. The Liberty Bell is very important to me. It's hard (real hard) to watch the news these days without gagging, or laughing your head off.

I watched a show on TV called "Bibliography," hosted by Peter Graves (of Mission Impossible fame) covering Hitler's Rise to Power. The moron they had narrating the film clips was still repeating lies some of which officially were retracted (even by today's slanted press), and others that only we seem to know about. I finally turned the sound off; it was much more enjoyable that way...

The very best,
V.G., Michigan

DOES THE WEST HAVE THE WILL TO SURVIVE?

That is the obvious question posed by Jean Raspail's terrifying novel of the swamping of the White world by an unlimited flood of non-White "refugees." But there is also a less obvious and even more fundamental question: Must Whites find their way to a new Morality and a new spirituality in order to face the moral challenges of the present and overcome them? THE CAMP OF THE SAINTS is the most frightening book you will ever read. It is frightening because it is utterly believable. The armada of refugee ships in Raspail's story is exactly like the one that dumped 150,000 Cubans from Fidel Castro's prisons and insane asylums on our shores in 1980 — except this time the armada is from India, with more than 70 times as large a population. And it is only the first armada of many. If any book will awaken White Americans to the danger they face from uncontrolled immigration, it is THE CAMP OF THE SAINTS. For your copy (Order No. 3014) send $9.00 (which includes $1.00 for postage and handling) to: LIBERTY BELL PUBLICATIONS, Box 21, Reedy WV 25270 USA.

FOR SALE: IBM Composer (built into IBM desk) with Magnetic Tape Recorder & Reader (needing adjustment), numerous tapes and some fonts included. $1500.00.

IBM Electronic Selectric Composer, with custom Centronix interface box used for typesetting from Apple & IBM computer word processors, in excellent condition, with some fonts, $2800.

KEEP THE LIBERTY BELL RINGING!

Please remember: Our fight is Your fight! Donate whatever you can spare on a regular—monthly or quarterly—basis. Whether it is $2., $5., $20., or $100. or more, rest assured it is needed here and will be used in our common struggle. If you are a businessman, postage stamps in any denomination, are a legitimate business expense—and we need and use many of these here every month, and will be gratefully accepted as donations.

Your donations will help us spread the Message of Liberty and White Survival throughout the land, by making available additional copies of our printed material to fellow Whites who do not yet know what is in store for them.

Order our pamphlets, booklets, stickers, and—most importantly—our reprints which are ideally suited for mass distribution at reasonable cost. Order extra copies of Liberty Bell for distribution to your circle of friends, neighbors and relatives, urging them to subscribe to our unique publication. Our bulk prices are shown on the inside front cover of every issue of Liberty Bell.

Pass along your copy of Liberty Bell, and copies of reprints you obtained from us, to friends and acquaintances who may be on our 'wave length,' and urge them to contact us for more of the same.

Carry on the fight to free our White people from the shackles of alien domination, even if you can only join our ranks in spirit. You can provide for this by bequest. The following are suggested forms of bequests which you may include in your Last Will and Testament:

1. I bequeath to Mr. George P. Dietz, as Trustee for Liberty Bell Publications, P.O. Box 21, Reedy WV 25270 USA, the sum of $ . . . . . for general purposes.

2. I bequeath to Mr. George P. Dietz, as Trustee for Liberty Bell Publications, P.O. Box 21, Reedy WV 25270 USA, the following described property . . . . . for general purposes.
